

CONTENTS

List of Contributors	vii
Preface	ix
1. Conflict Resolution in the Light of Game Theory and Beyond
Anatol Rapoport
I. Introduction	1
II. Games of Strategy	2
III. Optimal Strategies	4
IV. Nonconstant-Sum Games	6
V. Bargaining	9
VI. Shapley Value	20
VII. The Lion's Share	22
VIII. The Von Neumann-Morganstern Solution and the Core	25
IX. A Question of Stability	30
X. The Bargaining Set	32
XI. The Relevance of Game Theory to Theories of Conflict	35
XII. The Social Value of Game Theory	38
References	42
2. Determinants and Consequences of Toughness
Otomar J. Bartos
I. Preliminary Considerations	45
II. Experiments	49
III. Findings	53
IV. Discussion	64
References	68
3. Conflict and Power
Bertram H. Raven and Arie W. Kruglanski
I. Introduction	69
II. Power, Influence, and Conflict	72
III. The Bases of Unilateral Power in Conflict	73
IV. Dyadic Conflict with Reciprocated Power Bases	86
V. Dyadic Conflict with Nonreciprocated Power Bases	100
VI. Dyadic Conflict with Multiple Power Bases	102
VII. Summary and Some Loose Ends	104
References	105
4. Social Power in Interpersonal Negotiation
Charles L. Gruder
I. Introduction	111

II.	Thibaut and Kelley's Conceptualization of Social Power	113
III.	Sources of Power in Mixed-Motive Bargaining	117
IV.	Strategy	129
V.	Research Program Investigating Resolution of Conflict by the Adoption of Norms	137
VI.	Power within the Bargaining Party	147
VII.	Summary and Conclusions	151
	References	152
5.	Threats and Promises
	James T. Tedeschi
I.	Introduction	155
II.	Empirical Studies	162
III.	Parameters Affecting Social Influence	181
IV.	Conclusion	185
	References	187
6.	The Effects of Personality in Cooperation and Conflict
	Kenneth W. Terhune
I.	Introduction	193
II.	The Concepts of "Personality" and "Situation"	195
III.	Problems and Methods in Studying Personality Effects	199
IV.	Promising Directions for Further Research	207
V.	Relative Importance of Personality vs. Situational Differences	217
VI.	Toward the Advanced Study of Personality Effects	220
VII.	Summary and Conclusion	229
	References	230
7.	Dangerous Games
	Paul G. Swingle
I.	Introduction	235
II.	The Structure of Chicken	236
III.	Deterrence	244
IV.	The Power to Destroy	247
V.	Saving Face	265
VI.	Conclusions	272
	References	273
8.	Deterrence Games: From Academic Casebook to Military Codebook
	Irving Louis Horowitz
I.	Introduction	277
II.	The Game of Deterrence: A Military Codebook	278
III.	The Game of Deterrence: An Organizational Network	282
IV.	Deterrence Games: The Political Context	287
V.	The Game of Deterrence: A Cuban Casebook	290
	References	295
	Author Index	297
	Subject Index	303