

Contents

Language	7
1. Simon Horobin (Magdalen College, Oxford) 'Speaking and Writing in Suffolk speech': the language and dialect of Osbern Bokenham	9
2. Jerzy Welna (University of Warsaw) The post-sonorant devoicing of [d] in the past/past participle forms of weak verbs (sent, spend, etc.)	21
3. Janusz Malak (Opole University) The categorisation of the infinitive in the Old English ACI constructions	35
4. Justyna Rogos (Adam Mickiewicz University, Poznań) A synchronic approach to Old English nominal paradigms in the study of Ælfric's Catholic Homilies	49
5. Anna Kamińska-Cichosz (University of Łódź) The use of the "Subordinate Word-Order" in Old English and Old High German – a Text-Type Dependent Comparative Analysis	59
Literature	77
6. Andrzej Wicher (University of Łódź) Tolkien's indolent kings – echoes of medieval history in J. R. R. Tolkien's The lord of the rings	79
7. Noel Harold Kaylor Jr. (Troy University, Alabama) The shape of Chaucerian tragedy	93
8. Władysław Witalisz (Jagiellonian University, Kraków) "That mikel lith in Havelok" – supernatural signs of authority in Mid- dle English romance	107
9. Anna Czarnowus (University of Silesia, Katowice) Feminine acedia in Robert Henryson's The testament of Cresseid	115
10. Rafał Boryslawski (University of Silesia, Katowice) Twist and turn: On the visual rhetoric of Old English variation	127
11. Bartłomiej Błaszkiwicz (University of Warsaw) The poetics of the Gest historiale of the destruction of Troy	141