

Table of contents

Introduction	1
Eija Suomela-Salmi and Fred Dervin
PART 1. Discursive characteristics of AD
As academics we are not disposed to say "I know the world is round...": Marking of evidentiality in Russian and German historiographic articles	19
Christina Janik
Certainty and commitment in the construction of academic knowledge in the humanities	33
Rebecca Beke and Adriana Bolívar
Citation in business management research articles: A contrastive (English-Spanish) corpus-based analysis	49
Pilar Mur Dueñas
A cross-cultural comparison of the functions and sociolinguistic distribution of English and German tag questions and discourse markers in academic speech	61
Erik Schleeef
PART 2. Different voices
Polyphony in academic discourse: A cross-cultural perspective on historical discourse	83
Marina Bondi
Academic voices in the research article	109
Kjersti Fløttum
Author identity in economics and linguistics abstracts	123
Trine Dahl

Exploring the polyphonic dimension of academic book review articles in the discourse of linguistics Giuliana Diani	135
Notes on notes: Endnotes and footnotes in Swedish historical and philosophical research articles Merja Koskela and Tiina Männikkö	151
PART 3. Cross-cultural rhetoric
The use of contrastive strategies in a sociology research paper: A cross-cultural study Zofia Golebiowski	165
Different worlds, different audiences: A contrastive analysis of research article abstracts Rosa Lorés-Sanz	187
Spoken rhetoric: How do natives and non-natives fare? Anna Mauranen	199
Argumentative strategies in conference discussions sessions Irena Vassileva	219
PART 4. Construction of concepts in the academia
Clash of the Titans : The construction of the Human and Social Sciences by a philosopher and a sociologist Eija Suomela-Salmi and Fred Dervin	243
Semantic and discursive construction of the "Europe of knowledge" Olga Galatanu	275
Index	297