

Contents

Introduction

Human development under conditions of social change James Youniss, Peter Noack & Manfred Hofer	1
--	---

Part I

The Times are Changing - Patterns and Impact of Historical Development

Psychological constructions of social change James Youniss	9
Reframing concepts of development in the context of social change Connie Flanagan	23
American adolescents' views on family and work: Historical trends from 1976-1992 John Schulenberg, Jerald G. Bachman, Lloyd D. Johnston & Patrick M. O'Malley	37

Part II

Changing Context - Immigrant Families with Adolescent Children

Educational climate and intergenerative transmission in Turkish families: A comparison of migrants in Germany and non-migrants Bernhard Nauck	67
Adaptation patterns of parents and their children in the U.S. and Canada Ilija Zivkovic	87
German immigrants in Germany: Adaption of adolescents' timetables for autonomy Rainer K. Silbereisen & Eva Schmitt-Rodermund	105

Part III

Bringing Together an Entity - The Sample Case of East-West Unification

- Adolescents and their parents facing social change:
families in East and West Germany after unification
Peter Noack, Manfred Hofer, Bärbel Kracke, Elke Klein-Allermann 129
- Career and family orientations of East German women in times of change
Barbara Bertram 149
- Social life of children in a former bipartite city
Hans Oswald & Lothar Krappmann 163

Part IV

Growing Up in Different Contexts - Cross-cultural Perspectives

- Parent-adolescent relations in changing societies:
A cross-cultural study
Gisela Trommsdorff 189
- Searching for the future in different environments:
A comparison of Australian, Finnish and Israeli adolescents' future orientations, explorations and commitments
Jarik-Erik Nurmi, Rachel Seginer & Millicent E. Poole 219

Conclusions

- Microsocial variations, families, and adolescent development: Individual and collective ways of dealing with and shaping social change
Bärbel Kracke & Elke Klein-Allermann 239