

Contents

Preface	li
Acknowledgments	lv

1	Introduction	1
----------	---------------------	----------

	What is Developmental Social Psychology?	2
--	---	----------

	Developmental Social Psychology: Why?	3
--	---------------------------------------	---

	The trouble with students	4
--	----------------------------------	---

	The trouble with change	5
--	--------------------------------	---

	Limits to the scientific study of the intellectual development of the hermit	6
--	---	---

	Developmental Social Psychology: How?	6
--	---------------------------------------	---

	Strategy 1: a developmental slant on social psychology	7
--	---	---

	Strategy 2: a social slant on developmental psychology	8
--	---	---

Strategy 3: define the topics of social development, and study them	9
One more strategy	9
Two Key Concepts: Social and Socialization	10
Social	10
Socialization	13
Theoretical Backgrounds to Developmental Social Psychology	14
Cognitive Developmental Theory	14
The beginnings of knowledge	15
Mechanisms of development	16
Piagetian stages	16
Criticisms of Piagetian theory	19
Social Learning Theory	21
Learning from models	22
Vicarious consequences	23
The acquisition–performance distinction	23
Reciprocal determinism	24
The self and social learning	24
Criticisms of social learning theory	25
Evolutionary Theories: Ethology and Sociobiology	26
Ethology	26
Sociobiology	28
Criticisms of biologically based theories of social behavior	29
An Ecological Theory of Human Development	30

Criticisms of ecological theory	31
Implications for the Study of Socialization and Social Development	32
Developmental Social Psychology and the Real World	33
Developmental Social Psychology and Culture	34
Developmental Social Psychology and Methodologies	35
Choice of topics	35
Further reading	36

2 Social Life and Infancy 39

Signaling Capacities	41
Crying	41
Types of cries	42
Adults' responses to infant cries	42
Crying and learning	44
Interpreting cries	45
Cultural factors in responsiveness to infant cries	46
Smiling	47
Are infants' smiles social?	47
Cultural factors in orientations to infant smiles	49
Summary	50

Exploring and Discriminating	51
Visual Exploration	51
Infant attention to the face	51
Discrimination among faces	53
Discrimination among others	54
The beginnings of physical attractiveness bias	55
Auditory Attention and Discrimination	56
Attending to the human voice	56
Differentiating among speakers	56
Differentiating among speech sounds	57
Summary	57
Infant Capacities and the Beginnings of Social Interaction	58
The Beginnings of Coordinated Activity	58
Visual and Vocal Interaction	59
Vocal matching	61
Asymmetries in parent–infant interactions	61
Turn-taking and vocal interaction	62
Who calls the tune?	63
Subjectivity and intersubjectivity	64
Imitation, Joint Attention, and the Development of Routines	64
Imitation in early parent–infant interaction	65
Joint attention	66
The development of routines	67

Cultural Variations in Parent–Infant Interaction	67
Summary	69
Individual Differences in Infants and their Caregivers	70
Temperament in Infants	71
Heritability of temperament	72
Stability of temperament	72
Temperament in the family	73
Summary	74
Conclusions	74
Further reading	74
3 Attachment to Others	77
<hr/>
The Emergence of Attachment	80
Wariness of Strangers	81
Theories of Attachment	81
Psychoanalytic Theory	82
Learning Theories	82
Early learning theory	82
Social learning theory	83
Ethological Theory	83
Ethology and wariness of strangers	85

Intensity of the stranger's approach	87
Ethology, sociobiology, and the parents	87
A sensitive period for parenting?	88
Testing the mother–infant bond	88
Problems for the bonding hypothesis	90
Summary	91
Measuring and Categorizing Attachment	92
The Strange Situation	92
Types of Attachment	93
The significance of attachment type	94
How Strange is the Strange Situation?	95
Attachment and Development	95
Does the Quality of Attachment Matter?	95
Antecedents of Attachment Types	97
The quality of caregiving	97
Temperament	98
Does Quality of Attachment Really Predict Subsequent Development?	100
Attachment in Older Children	101
Summary	101
Maternal Absence and Paternal Presence	101
Maternal Absence	102

Short-term effects	102
Long-term effects	102
The Father and Attachment	104
Summary	105
Culture and Attachment	106
Culture and the Strange Situation methodology	107
Summary	107
Conclusions	108
Further reading	109

4 From Family to Peers 111

Social Psychology, Developmental Psychology, and the Family as a Group	114
Summary	116
Parental Values and Childrearing Styles	116
Beginnings of the Family Group: Parental Needs and Societal Structures	116
Orientations toward Childrearing	118
Parental Style and Child Characteristics	119
Possible benefits of authoritative parenting	120
Why are there non-authoritative parents?	120
The return of the exosystem	120
Marital discord	121

Parental personality	122
The child's personality	123
Summary	123
Change and Development within the Family: the Impact of Siblings	124
Siblings and the Complexity of Early Relations	124
Siblings and temperament	125
Siblings and Attachments	126
Siblings as attachment figures	126
Siblings as caregivers	127
Siblings and the Ambivalence of Relationships	128
Summary	129
Beyond the Family	130
Other Caregivers in the Home Environment	130
Day Care	132
Interpreting the "effects" of day care	134
Summary	135
Peer Relations: Entry and Functions	135
Infant Sociability	137
Peer Interactions among Preschoolers	138
Peer Interactions among School-aged Children	140

Emotions, Attachments, and Conflicts in Peer Relations	140
Attachments to peers	140
Conflicts in peer relations	142
Peer Group Formation	143
The Significance of Children's Friendships	144
Summary	145
Peer Relations: Individual Differences	145
Correlates of peer acceptance	147
Physical attractiveness	147
Personal name	147
Teacher influence	148
Social Competence	148
The Origins of Social Competence	150
Cognitive factors	150
Family relations	151
Temperament	153
The Limits and Dangers of Social Competence	153
Summary	155
Conclusions	155
Further reading	155

A note on terminology	162
Sex Differences: How Extensive Are They?	163
The Science and Politics of Finding Sex Differences	163
Differences in Personality and Social Behavior	164
Expecting differences	164
Finding, and not finding, differences	165
Locating differences	165
Cognitive Differences	166
Mathematical abilities	166
Spatial abilities	167
Linguistic differences	167
Summary	168
Biological Accounts of Sex Role Differences	168
Parental Investment Theory and Sex Roles	169
Biological Differences in Early Behavior	170
Experiments with children's sex	171
Problems with Biological Explanations	172
Summary	173
Social Learning Theory and Sex Roles	173
Reinforcement	174
Modeling	175

The Media	176
Problems with Social Learning Theory	178
Summary	179
Cognitive Developmental Theories and Sex Roles	179
Kohlberg and the Self-socialization of Gender Roles	179
Self-socialization and selective attention to gender-related information	181
Gender Schematic Processing Theory	182
Is Gender Constancy Irrelevant to Sex Role Development?	183
Problems for Cognitive Developmental Theories of Sex Role Development	184
Summary	186
The Social Contexts of Sex Role Development	186
What do Parents Encourage?	187
What do Peers do?	188
What do Schools Encourage?	189
Summary	191
Conclusions	191
Further reading	192

6	Language Development I: Origins and Course	195
	The Neglect of Language	196
	Language as Knowledge	198
	Learning Theory and Language Development	199
	Social learning theory	200
	Summary	200
	A Biological Theory of Language Acquisition	201
	Linguistics and Language Structure	201
	Language and Creativity	204
	Implications of Grammatical Analysis for the Study of Development	205
	Summary	206
	The Study of Child Language	206
	Does Language Grow?	207
	Charting linguistic production in early childhood	208
	Structures of early language	209
	The emergence of grammatical morphemes	209
	Language and Imitation	210
	Language and Reinforcement	210

Continuing Progress in the Study of Syntactic Acquisition	211
Semantic Development	212
Over-extension and under-extension	213
Lexical organization and innovation	213
Is there a Sensitive Period for Language Acquisition?	214
A case study in language acquisition post-puberty	215
Second language acquisition within and beyond the sensitive period	216
Summary	217
Cognitive Developmental Approaches to Language Acquisition	217
Piaget on Language Acquisition	218
The Cognition Hypothesis	219
Problems for the cognition hypothesis	219
Summary	221
Conclusions	221
Further reading	222
7 Language Development II: Social Dimensions of Acquisition and Use	223
<hr/>
Language Acquisition in its Social Contexts	224

A Social Basis to Language Acquisition?	225
The development of joint attention and formats: assisting language acquisition?	226
Speech Addressed to Children	226
Some Problems for the Social Basis Perspective	228
Language as Interaction	230
The non-simplicity of parental language	231
Parent-child misunderstanding	232
How is language development possible in the course of social interactions?	233
Social Perspectives on Language Acquisition: a Summing Up	235
Language in Use: Conversational Development	236
Communicating as Partners: the Development of Conversational Skills	237
Understanding Others' Perspectives and Intentions	239
Referential communication, language skills, and social context	240
The Emergence of Politeness	241
Summary	243
Language as an Attribute: Social Status and Language Style	243

Are there Qualitative Differences among Languages?	243
The deficit–difference argument	244
Differences and Prejudices	245
Parental concerns about language style	246
Shifting speech style	247
Accommodation Theory: Language Study Meets Experimental Social Psychology	248
Summary	250
Conclusions	250
Further reading	251
8 The Development of Nonverbal Communication	253
<hr/>
Definition	255
Output: Expressive Nonverbal Communication	255
Nonverbal Expression of Emotion	255
Universals of nonverbal expression	256
Age-related Developments	258
Control of emotional displays	258
Physiology, social cognition, and social presence	259
The Development of Symbolic Gestures	262
Pointing	262

Summary	264
Intake: Decoding the Nonverbal Communicative Signals of Others	265
Intake During Infancy	265
Discrimination among nonverbal behaviors	265
Comprehending others' gestures: pointing revisited	266
Social referencing in infancy	268
Intake during the Preschool and School Years	269
Differentiating culture-specific nonverbal communications	270
Use of nonverbal cues in social perception	270
Social familiarity and nonverbal decoding	271
Summary	271
Interaction	272
Acquiring Nonverbal Communication in a Social Context	273
The Social Contexts of Individual Differences in Expressiveness	274
Gender differences and social context	275
Nonverbal Communication and Peer Interactions	276
Initiating peer interactions	276
Maintaining and regulating peer interactions	277
Interpersonal Distance	279
Personal space and development	280

Nonverbal Communication and Language Development	281
Summary	283
Conclusions	284
Further reading	284
9 Social Cognition I: Understanding the Social World	287
<hr/>
What is social cognition? Two research orientations	289
Developing a Concept of Self	290
Discovering the Self in Infancy and Early Childhood	291
Development of self-recognition	291
The development of self-definition	292
Self and others' treatment of self	293
Development of Self-concept beyond Early Childhood	294
The preschool years	294
The school years	295
The Social Context of Self-knowledge	295
Self, others, and public characteristics	296
Emotional regulation in social contexts	296
Developing a self with, despite, and because of other people	297
Self-concept and Culture	298

The Development of Self-esteem	299
Integrating domains of self-knowledge	300
Summary	301
Knowledge of Others	302
Distinguishing People from Other Things	302
The Development of Person Perception	305
Perceptions of Others and Conceptions of Friendship	306
Developmental and Social Perspectives on Person Perception	307
Person, situation, and development	309
Understanding Others' Mental Processes: Perspectives, Intentions, and Emotions	310
Visual perspective-taking in childhood	310
Social role-taking perspectives in childhood	311
Perspective-taking and social behavior	313
Understanding Others' Intentions	314
Understanding Others' Emotions	315
Summary	316
Social Comparison	317
Social Comparisons in Childhood	318
When do social comparisons begin?	318
Developmental changes	319

Comparisons and competencies	320
Social Comparison and Social Context	321
Similarity	321
Society, school, and values	321
Summary	322
Conclusions	323
Further reading	323
10 Social Cognition II: Social Reasoning and Societal Knowledge	325
<hr/>
Attribution Theory	327
Attributions are Lay Theories	327
Early awareness of causality	328
Using Attributional Rules	329
Children and the discounting principle	330
Attributional Biases	332
The fundamental attribution error	332
Attributional biases in children	333
Attributional biases and intergroup relations	334
Attributions and Achievement-related Behavior	335
Development of achievement-related attributions	336
Attributions and Learned Helplessness	339

Learned Helplessness in Children	340
The onset of learned helplessness	341
The Social Contexts of Attribution	341
The social contexts of learned helplessness	342
Gender, attributions, and helplessness	343
Attributional retraining	345
Culture and Attributions	345
Summary	346
Knowledge of Social Roles and Social Structure	346
Developmental Changes in Reasoning about Social Structures	347
Understanding authority	348
The Social Contexts of Role and Societal Understanding	349
The Development of Conceptions of International and Ethnic Relations	351
The Development of Ethnic and National Prejudice	352
The social reflection theory of prejudice	352
A social cognitive theory of the development of prejudice	353
Aboud's theory: the empirical evidence	354
Ethnic minority children's evaluations	355
Summary	356

Conclusions	356
Further reading	357
11 Social Cognition III: Social Interaction and Cognitive Development	359
<hr/>
Neo-Piagetian Theory and Social Cognition	361
Social Interaction and Cognitive Development: the Evidence	363
Social Marking and Sociocognitive Conflict	364
Conflict over Sociocognitive Conflict	366
Summary	368
Vygotskyan Theory and Social Cognition	368
The Zone of Proximal Development	369
Vygotskyan Accounts of Cognitive Development: the Evidence	370
Adults as tutors: experimental tasks	370
Scaffolding	371
Adults as tutors: naturalistic contexts	372
Peers as tutors	373
Peer tutoring and social context	373
Summary	374

Conflict, Complementarity, and Oversights among Neo-Piagetian and Vygotskyan Perspectives	374
Some Limits on the Benefits of Partners, Tutors, and Teams	375
Variabilities in interpersonal relations	375
Status and partnership	376
Multiple Processes of Social Interaction	378
The Zone of Developmental Social Psychological Development	379
Summary	380
The Development of Social Representations	381
Social Representations	381
Social Representations in Childhood	382
Social representations of mental illness	383
Social Representations of Development	384
Social Representations and Social Attributions	387
Summary	387
Conclusions	388
Further reading	388

12	The Development of Aggression	391
	Defining and finding aggression	393
	Modes of aggressive and nonaggressive behavior	394
	Outline of the Development of Aggression	396
	Infancy	396
	The Preschool Years	397
	Middle Childhood Onwards	397
	Biological Theories and Aggression	398
	Biological Factors and Aggression	400
	Some Problems for Biological Accounts	400
	Summary	401
	The Frustration–Aggression Hypothesis	401
	Problems with the Frustration–Aggression Hypothesis	402
	Summary	402
	Social Learning Theory and Aggression	403
	Learning about Violence via the Mass Media	404
	Does Violence in the Media Cause Aggression in the Viewer?	406
	Back to social learning theory	409
	Summary	409

Social Cognitive Developmental Perspectives on the Development of Aggression	410
Social Information-processing	411
Summary	412
The Social Contexts of Aggression	413
The Family	413
Cognitive dissonance and aggression in the home	414
Aggression and domestic climate	414
Bidirectionality in parent–child aggression	415
Peer Groups	416
Gender Differences in Aggression	417
Nature versus nurture	418
Sex differences in peer activities	419
Where are the sex differences in aggression?	420
Aggression in adult male–female relations	421
Cross-cultural Differences in Aggression	423
Culture and sex differences	423
Cultural differences and theories of aggression	424
Summary	425
Conclusions	426
Further reading	426

13	The Development of Prosocial Behavior	429
	Defining and finding prosocial behavior	431
	Outline of the Development of Prosocial Behavior	433
	Infancy	433
	Toddlers and Preschoolers	434
	The School Years	435
	Adolescence	436
	Adulthood	436
	Summary	437
	Sociobiological Theory and Prosocial Behavior	437
	Problems with Sociobiological Accounts of Prosocial Behavior	439
	Summary	440
	Social Learning Theory and Prosocial Behavior	440
	Reinforcement and Punishment	440
	Observational Learning	441
	Problems with the Social Learning Theory of Prosocial Behavior	442

Summary	442
Social Cognitive Developmental Perspectives on Prosocial Behavior	443
Cognitive Development and Prosocial Behavior	443
Cognitive development and self-interest	445
Social Cognitive Development and the Norms of Prosocial Behavior	445
The norm of responsibility: help those who need help	445
The norm of reciprocity: help those who help you	446
The norm of deservedness: help those who deserve help	446
Norms, meanings, and motives in prosocial behavior	446
Social Cognitive Development and Empathy	447
“Better to Give than Receive”: Social Cognitive Dimensions of Being Helped	449
Problems with Social Cognitive Explanations of Prosocial Behavior	451
Summary	451
The Social Contexts of Prosocial Behavior	452
Socialization Practices and the Family	452
Situational Influences upon Prosocial Behavior	454
The situation back at Robbers’ Cave	455
Gender Differences in Prosocial Behavior	456
Cross-cultural Variations in Prosocial Behavior	457

Culture and some more paradoxes of prosocial behavior	459
Summary	460
Conclusions	460
Further reading	461
14 Moral Development	463
<hr/>
Biological Theories of Morality	466
Summary	467
Social Learning Theory and Morality	467
Positive Reinforcement and Morality	468
Punishment and Morality	468
Observational Learning and Morality	470
Summary	470
Cognitive Developmental Theories of Moral Development	470
Piaget and Moral Development	471
The stage of heteronomous morality	471
Acts, intentions, and consequences	472
The stage of autonomous morality (or the morality of cooperation)	473
Kohlberg's Theory of Moral Development	473
Evidence Supporting Kohlberg's Theory	478

Problems for Cognitive Developmental Theories of Moral Development	479
Methodological problems	479
Is the young child really amoral?	480
Morality and social convention	481
The relationship between moral reasoning and moral behavior	483
Summary	485
The Social Contexts of Moral Development and Behavior	486
The Family and Moral Development	486
The rights and wrongs of everyday life	486
Family context and beyond in the development of morality and social conventions	487
Gender and Morality	489
Moral reasoning in a female preserve	491
Reactions to Gilligan's position	492
Morality and Ideology	493
Feminism, morality, and ideology	495
Culture and Morality	496
Western morality as supreme	497
Kohlberg's model as culture biased	498
Cultures, justice, and interpersonal responsibilities, and more missing train tickets	499
Summary	500

Conclusions	501
Further reading	502
15 Adolescence I: Transitions	505
<hr/>
When and What is Adolescence?	506
Era, Culture, and Adolescence	507
Adolescence and Change	508
Biological Development in a Social World	509
Female development	509
Menarche and social expectations	510
Male Development	511
Cognitive and Social Cognitive Developments in Adolescence	511
Adolescent egocentrism	512
The Development of Self-understanding in Adolescence	513
Self-esteem in adolescence	514
Is Adolescence a Period of Storm and Stress?	515
Adolescence as Identity Crisis	515
Identity status	516
Gender, identity, and intimacy	517
Does everyone experience identity crisis?	517
Family, class, and ethnic correlates of identity status	518
Summary	520

Relations with Parents	520
The Generation Gap	520
The Pursuit of Autonomy	521
Gender and autonomy	523
Adolescent–Parent Conflicts	523
Summary	524
Peers in Adolescence	525
The Increasing Salience of Peers in Adolescence	525
Peer Conformity	526
Adolescents' perceptions of peer pressure	527
Peers, conformity, and social comparisons in adolescence	528
Peers, Parents, and Other Social Relationships	529
Summary	530
Conclusions	530
Further reading	531

16 Adolescence II: Entering the Adult World 533

Sexuality and Social Context	534
The Double Standard	535
Culture and biology: a reminder	536
Social scripts for sexuality	537

A male script	537
A female script	537
Coercion and Rape	538
Not Fitting the Regular Script: Gay Adolescents' Development	540
Choice of Mate	541
Cultural differences in mate preferences	543
Cross-cultural constancies in mate preferences	543
Summary	544
Attainment and Aspirations	545
Family, School, and Ethnic Backgrounds	545
Orientation toward the Future	546
Work and Adolescence	548
Vocational development	548
Transitions to work and unemployment	550
Work and adolescent development	551
Joining the workforce in a full-time capacity	551
Underemployment and unemployment	552
Mental health and employment status	553
Unemployment and disaffection with society	555
Summary	555
The trouble with adolescents: a final comment on cohort changes	556
Conclusions	556
Further reading	557

Jessor and Jessor's Model of Adolescent Problem Behavior	561
Transition proneness	563
The family and adolescent problems	563
Delinquency	567
Defining Delinquency	564
Individual Differences	565
Personality	565
Cognitive and moral development	566
School performance	567
Socioeconomic Status	568
Class	568
Race	569
Gender	570
Feminism and equal opportunities in crime	571
Family Environment	572
Delinquency as a Positive Choice: the Reputation Management Theory	573
The social contexts of delinquent activity	573
Summary	574
Health Problems	575
Drug Use in Adolescence	576

Alcohol	576
Alcohol and the peer context	577
Alcohol and the parental context	577
Smoking	578
Smoking and the family context	578
Smoking and the peer context	579
Other drugs	580
Adolescent drug use in perspective	581
Adolescent Pregnancy	582
Why become pregnant?	583
The social contexts of adolescent pregnancy	584
The impact of adolescent pregnancy upon family relations	585
Eating Disorders	585
Eating disorders and the family	586
Eating disorders and peers	587
Eating disorders and broader societal influences	587
Suicide	589
Interrelations among Adolescent Problem Behaviors	590
Summary	591
Conclusions	591
Further reading	592

18	Adulthood I: Development, Relationships, and Roles	595
	Adulthood and Development	597
	Levinson's Seasons of a Man's Life	598
	Early adulthood	599
	Middle adulthood	599
	Seasons of Women's Lives	600
	Summary	602
	Relationships and Roles in Adulthood	602
	Life-cycle and Personal Organization	603
	Development and the Social Clock	603
	Relationships	604
	Attachment through the Lifespan	604
	The benefits of attachments	605
	From attachments to attachments	606
	Do early attachments determine the character of later attachments?	607
	Marriage	608
	Marriage as a developmental social change	609
	Marriage: correlates and course	610
	Social cognition and marital satisfaction	610
	Marital status and wellbeing	611

Parenthood	611
Attachment again	612
Parental stresses and social expectations	612
Division of labor in the home	613
Is the domestic division of labor changing?	614
Other Relationships	616
Siblings	616
Friendship	616
Affairs	617
Relating to the Broader Community	618
Attachment and societal involvement	618
Social comparisons in early adulthood	619
Summary	621
Work in Adulthood	621
Work and Gender	622
Achievement and Gender	623
Fear of success	623
Gender bias in evaluation	624
Developmental social expectations	625
Role conflict and role uncertainty	627
Summary	628
Conclusions	629
Further reading	629

19	Adulthood II: Middle Age and the Later Years	631
	Middle Age	632
	The Midlife Transition	632
	Is there a midlife crisis?	632
	Midlife and the family	634
	Midlife and Gender	635
	Social stereotypes and midlife	635
	Additional caregiving responsibilities for midlife women	636
	The menopause	637
	Summary	637
	Development in Later Life	638
	Aging and Culture	639
	Stereotypes of the Elderly	640
	Explanations of negativity toward the aged	641
	Social consequences of stereotypes and expectations of the elderly	641
	Social Comparisons and Self-esteem among the Elderly	643
	Physical, Cognitive, and Linguistic Developments in Old Age	644
	Physical changes	644
	Cognitive changes	644
	Language and the elderly	645

Relating to Society and Social Life in the Later Years	647
Mass Media Use by the Elderly	648
The Family and the Elderly	649
Loss of partner	650
Summary	651
Conclusions	652
Further reading	652
References	655
Author Index	757
Subject Index	000