

Contents

List of Figures	vii
Acknowledgements	ix
List of Abbreviations	xi
Introduction	xiii
1 Dance, Writing and Trauma	1
Ballet and the Neoclassicist Tradition	1
Dances of the Self	7
Figures of the Text	16
2 Heinrich von Kleist and the Mechanics of Grace	19
Aesthetics and Dance c. 1800	20
Grace and Affectation in Über das Marionettentheater	34
Kleist's Law of Movement	47
3 E.T.A. Hoffmann and the True Art of Dance	57
Hoffmann on Dance	59
Performances of Trauma in Der Sandmann	64
The Dancing Self in Prinzessin Brambilla	74
4 Heinrich Heine and the New Language of the Body	97
Neoclassicism, Ballet and Heine's Cultural Theory of Dance	99
Dances of Mourning: Laurence and Giselle	114
Speaking Dancing	127
Conclusion	137
Bibliography	141
Index	155

List of Figures

- 2.1 Costume drawing Venus, in ‘Costumes de femmes, pour le ballet du Jugement de Paris’ (Berlin, 1803) (by kind permission of Staatliche Museen zu Berlin, Kunstbibliothek). 27
- 2.2 Title page of Apollon et Daphne, in ‘Recueil des ballets, exécuté sur les Théâtres de Cassel, depuis l’année 1764 jusqu’à la fin de l’année 1768. Inventé et composé par Mr Lauchery’ (Cassel, 1768) (by kind permission of the British Library, London, 11736.g.18). 28
- 2.3 Title page of Le Jugement de Paris, in ‘Recueil des ballets, exécuté sur les Théâtres de Cassel, depuis l’année 1764 jusqu’à la fin de l’année 1768. Inventé et composé par Mr Lauchery’ (Cassel, 1768) (by kind permission of the British Library, London, 11736.g.18). 29
- 2.4 Gian Lorenzo Bernini, Apollo and Daphne (c. 1622/23), Rome, Galleria Borghese. Image reprinted from Heinrich von Kleist, Sämtliche Werke und Briefe, Vol. 3, ed. by Klaus Müller-Salget (Frankfurt am Main: Deutscher Klassiker Verlag, 1990), No. 15 (by kind permission of the Soprintendenza Speciale per il Polo Museale Romano). 39
- 2.5 Youth drawing a splinter from his foot, Roman bronze, first century AD, presumably after a Greek original from the third century BC. Rome, Palazzo dei Conservatori; in Paris between 1791 and 1815. Image reprinted from Heinrich von Kleist, Sämtliche Werke und Briefe, Vol. 3, ed. by Klaus Müller-Salget (Frankfurt am Main: Deutscher Klassiker Verlag, 1990), No. 16 (by kind permission of the Capitoline Museums, Rome). 44
- 3.1 Riciulina and Metzetin – Giglio’s double dances with Princess Brambilla, nineteenth-century copper engraving by Carl Friedrich Thiele after an etching of the series Balli di Sfessania by Jacques Callot (c. 1622) (by kind permission of the Staatsbibliothek Bamberg). 79

- 3.2 Franca Trippa and Fritellino – Giglio dances with his double, nineteenth-century copper engraving by Carl Friedrich Thiele after an etching of the series Balli di Sfessania by Jacques Callot (c. 1622) (by kind permission of the Staatsbibliothek Bamberg). 80
- 3.3 Fracischina and Gian Farina – Giglio dances with the unknown beauty, nineteenth-century copper engraving by Carl Friedrich Thiele after an etching of the series Balli di Sfessania by Jacques Callot (c. 1622) (by kind permission of the Staatsbibliothek Bamberg). 87
- 3.4 Taglia Cantoni and Fracasso – Giglio fights with his double, nineteenth-century copper engraving by Carl Friedrich Thiele after an etching of the series Balli di Sfessania by Jacques Callot (c. 1622) (by kind permission of the Staatsbibliothek Bamberg). 92
- 4.1 Leopold Robert, Arrival of the Harvesters in the Pontine Marshes (1830) (by kind permission of the Réunion des Musées Nationaux, France, Gérard Blot). 120
- 4.2 Alexandre-Gabriel Decamps, Turkish Patrol (c. 1828) (by kind permission of the Trustees of the Wallace Collection, London). 121

Cover illustration: E.T.A. Hoffmann, pencil drawing of Kapellmeister Kreisler in a fit of madness (1822) (by kind permission of the Staatsbibliothek Bamberg).