

Contents

Preface	vii
Memorial	xi
1. Shape and Pattern Perception
Peter C. Dodwell, G. Keith Humphrey, and Darwin W. Muir
I. General Introduction	1
II. Research on 'Abstract' Patterns and Pattern Elements	9
III. The Constancies	35
IV. Face Perception	53
V. Conclusion	63
References	66
2. Development of Visual Space Perception
Albert Yonas and Cynthia Owsley
I. Sensitivity to Binocular Information	80
II. Sensitivity to Static Monocular Information	86
III. Sensitivity to Kinetic Information	102
IV. Concluding Comments	115
References	117
3. Visual Motion Perception in Infancy: A Review and Synthesis
Charles A. Nelson and Frances Degen Horowitz
I. Introduction	123
II. Studies of Smooth Pursuit	125
III. Studies of Visual Tracking	127
IV. Reaching as an Index of Tracking	133
V. Preference-for-Motion Studies	136
VI. Studies of Information Contained in Motion	138

VII. General Discussion	144
References	149
4. The Development of Search
P. L. Harris
I. Introduction	155
II. Review of Experimental Studies	160
III. Alternative Theories	183
IV. Categorizing and Locating Objects	195
V. Summary	202
References	203
5. Event Encoding in Infancy
Janellen Huttenlocher and Theresa Smyth-Burke
I. Introduction	209
II. Object Encoding	211
III. Event Encoding	217
References	229
6. The Development of Intermodal Perception
Elizabeth S. Spelke
I. Introduction	233
II. Three Perspectives on the Development of Intermodal Perception	234
III. The Foundations of Intermodal Perception	241
IV. Developmental Changes in Intermodal Perception	256
V. Conclusion	263
References	267
7. Perception of Speech and Sound in Early Infancy
Patricia K. Kuhl
I. Introduction	275
II. Background on the Study of Speech Perception	276
III. Methods for Assessing Speech Perception in Infancy	296
IV. Development of Basic Sensory Capabilities	303
V. The Discrimination of Speech by Infants	308
VI. Perceptual Organization in Speech Perception: Two Approaches	318
VII. Cross-Language Studies of Speech Perception	355
VIII. The Cognitive Representation of Speech: Studies on Intermodal Speech Perception	361
IX. Speech as a Social Signal: Voice Recognition	367
X. General Summary	371
References	373
Index	383