

CONTENTS

List of Tables	ix
Chronology	x
Map	xxii
Introduction	1
1 Revolution in Eastern Europe	11
2 Different Roads to Socialism	31
3 An End to Diversity	57
4 1956: Communism Renewed?	87
5 Actually Existing Socialism in Operation	117
6 Reform Communism or Economic Reform	142
7 Neo-Stalinism Triumphant	172
8 The Fall of Actually Existing Socialism	201
9 Adapting to Capitalism Enthusiastically: Central Europe	233

10 Adapting to Capitalism Hesitantly: the Balkans	259
Conclusion	287
Notes	291
Suggested Reading	313
Index	315

LIST OF TABLES

5.1	The creation of the Soviet-type planning system in Eastern Europe	123
5.2	Land reform and collectivisation in post-war Eastern Europe	124
5.3	Socialised share of industrial output and retail turnover, 1952	125
5.4	Share of net material product devoted to accumulation (net investment in fixed capital plus increases in inventories) and personal consumption (%)	128
5.5	Share of investment by branch, 1953–55 (Comecon countries gross investment, Yugoslavia net investment in fixed assets)	129
5.6	Index of GDP and energy intensity of GDP, 1973 (United States = 100)	129
5.7	Constitutional arrangements in Eastern Europe	132
5.8	Minor political parties in Eastern Europe	134
5.9	Full name of Communist Party and Party leader's non-Party post, 1980–81	135
6.1	National income, 1956–65 (percentage annual rates of growth of net material product)	143
9.1	Market enabling, deepening and sustaining reforms	237
9.2	Economic performance 1989–2006/07	239