

Contents

Foreword	xi
Acknowledgements	xiii
1 Introduction	1
1.1 What is the recovery movement in psychiatry?	1
1.2 Rationale for the book	5
1.3 From traitement moral to moral treatment	9
1.4 Reciprocity in community-based care	10
1.5 The everyday and interpersonal context of recovery	11
1.6 Closing the hospital	13
1.7 The rights and responsibilities of citizenship	14
1.8 Agency as a basis for transformation	15
1.9 Why these figures and not others?	17
1.10 Conclusion	21
2 From Traitement Moral to Moral Treatment	23
2.1 The birth of psychiatry as a medical speciality	23
2.2 Philippe Pinel and Jean-Baptise Pussin	29
2.3 Traitement moral	34
2.4 Pinel's psychological interventions	38
2.5 The Retreat at York	42
2.6 Moral treatment or moral management?	46
2.7 From treatment to education	50
2.8 Re-shaping character	54
2.9 The demise of moral treatment	58
2.10 Summary of lessons learned	59
3 Reciprocity in Community-based Care	61
3.1 The advocacy of Dorothea Dix	61
3.2 The legacy of Dorothea Dix	64
3.3 Jane Addams' community alternative	66

3.4	A series of unfortunate, but influential, events	68
3.5	The founding of the first American 'settlement'	73
3.6	Forty years at Hull-House	76
3.7	Distilling the active ingredients	82
3.8	Interventions with individuals	85
3.9	Interventions with collectives	88
3.10	Applications to mental health	93
3.11	Summary of lessons learned	97
4	The Everyday and Interpersonal Context of Recovery	99
4.1	The birth of psychiatry as a community-based practice	99
4.2	Beyond the illness paradigm (by John Strauss, part 1)	100
4.3	Growing up inside Meyer's 'common sense' psychiatry (by John Strauss, part 2)	105
4.4	Subjectivity and the person (by John Strauss, part 3)	110
4.5	Blending science and art in a human science (by John Strauss, part 4)	117
4.6	From a psychiatry based in death to a psychiatry based in life	119
4.7	Problems in everyday living and their resolution	126
4.8	Opportunity and occupation	134
4.9	The interpersonal context of recovery	137
4.10	Summary of lessons learned	143
5	Closing the Hospital	145
5.1	The failure of the asylum	145
5.2	Erving Goffman and the presentation of self	147
5.3	The hospital as 'total institution'	150
5.4	Franco Basaglia and the Italian mental health reform movement	156
5.5	De-institutionalization the Italian way	157
5.6	Bracketing the illness	161
5.7	'Freedom is therapeutic'	166
5.8	Avoiding the re-creation of the asylum in the community	169
5.9	Social inclusion	172
5.10	Summary of lessons learned	176
6	The Rights and Responsibilities of Citizenship	179
6.1	Recovery as a civil rights movement	179
6.2	The incomplete world of Martin Luther King, Jr	180
6.3	Can rights be given?	182
6.4	Recovery delayed is recovery denied	184
6.5	Color blindness and capitalism	188
6.6	The complete subject of Gilles Deleuze	192
6.7	Oedipus and anti-Oedipus	195
6.8	Schizophrenic speech and Watergate	197

6.9	Community inclusion vs community integration	200
6.10	Summary of lessons learned	205
7	Agency as the Basis for Transformation	207
7.1	The need for a new conceptual framework	207
7.2	Beyond de-institutionalization and community tenure	209
7.3	Rights and recovery	212
7.4	The capabilities approach of Amartya Sen	214
7.5	Applying a capabilities approach to the work of transformation	220
7.6	Human agency and mediation: the work of Lev Vygotsky	224
7.7	Action theory, the zone of proximal development and scaffolding	231
7.8	Applying activity analysis: the case of fossilized behavior	237
7.9	Applying activity analysis: using the zone of proximal development	243
7.10	Summary of lessons learned	247
8	Conclusion	249
	References	261
	Index	273