Contents

Chapter One The Development Through Life Perspective 2
Assumptions of the Text 4
A Psychosocial Approach 4
The Scientific Process 10
Scientific Observation 12
Research Design 12
Selecting a Sample 13
Research Methods 15
Observation 16
Experimentation 18
Surveys and Tests 19
Case Study 21
Interviews 22
Designs for Studying Change 23
Retrospective Studies 23
Cross-Sectional Designs 26
Longitudinal Studies 26
Cohort Sequential Designs 27
Evaluating Existing Research 27
Ethics 28
The Life Span 29
Chapter Summary 31
References 32

Chapter Two Psychosocial Theory 34
What Is a Theory? 36
The Psychosocial Perspective 37
Basic Concepts of Psychosocial Theory 40
Stages of Development 41
Developmental Tasks 45
Psychosocial Crisis 49
The Central Process for Resolving the Psychosocial Crisis 52
Radius of Significant Relationships 55
Coping Behavior 56

Evaluation of Psychosocial Theory 58
Strengths 60
Weaknesses 61
Chapter Summary 62
References 66

Chapter Three Theories of Change 68

Biological Evolution 70
Natural Selection 70
Adaptation 71
Biological Adaptation 71
Behavioral Adaptation 71
Evolution and the Human Species 72
Ethology 76
Implications for Human Development 79
Cultural Differences 80
Ethnic Subcultures 81
Implications for Human Development 82
Psychosexual Development 84
Domains of Consciousness 85
Three Structures of Personality 86
Defense Mechanisms 89
Psychosexual Stages 91
Implications for Human Development 94
Cognitive Development 95
Scheme 97
Adaptation 97
Stages of Development 98
Implications for Human Development 101
Learning 103
Classical Conditioning 103
Implications for Human Development 105
Operant Conditioning 105
Shaping 107
Schedules of Reinforcement 108
Implications for Human Development 110
Social Learning 111
Implications for Human Development 111
Cognitive Behaviorism 111
Summary of Learning Theories 114
Social Roles 114
Four Dimensions of Social Roles 115
Implications for Human Development 117
Systems 119
Implications for Human Development 120

Chapter Summary 122
References 124

Chapter Four The Period of Pregnancy and Prenatal Development 128

Genetics and Development 130
Genes and Chromosomes as Sources of Genetic Information 130
Genotype and Phenotype 133
Sex-Linked Characteristics 134
Genetic Sources of Individuality 135
Genetic Determinants of Rate of Development 135
Genetic Determinants of Individual Traits 136
Genetic Determinants of Abnormal Development 137
Genetic Technology and Psychosocial Evolution 138
Normal Fetal Development 144
Fertilization 144
Infertility and Alternative Means of Reproduction 145
Development in the First Trimester 148
Development in the Second Trimester 151
Development in the Third Trimester 153
The Birth Process 154
Stages of Labor 154
Cesarean Delivery 156
Infant Mortality 158
The Mother, the Fetus, and the Psychosocial Environment 158
The Impact of the Fetus on the Pregnant Woman 159
Changes in Roles and Social Status 159
The Mother's Emotional State 160
The Impact of the Pregnant Woman on the Fetus 162
Mother's Age 162
Drugs 164
Environmental Toxins 167
Obstetric Anesthetics 167
Mother's Diet 168
The Impact of Culture 169
Reactions to Pregnancy 170
Reactions to Childbirth 172
The Impact of Poverty 173
Applied Topic: Abortion 174
Chapter Summary 177
References 178

Chapter Five Infancy (Birth to 2 Years) 184

Developmental Tasks 187
Social Attachment 187
Stages of Attachment 188
Objects of Attachment 190

Quality of Attachment 191
The Relevance of Attachment for Later Development 196
Maturation of Sensory/Perceptual and Motor Functions 198
Sensorimotor Intelligence and Primitive Causality 204
Six Phases in the Development of Causal Schemes 207
Understanding the Nature of Objects and Creating Categories 208
The Nature of Objects 209
The Categorization of Objects 211
Emotional Development 212
Emotional Differentiation 213
Emotional Interpretation 214
Emotional Regulation 215
Summary 218
The Psychosocial Crisis: Trust versus Mistrust 218
The Central Process: Mutuality with the Caregiver 220
Summary 223
Applied Topic: The Role of Parents 223
Chapter Summary 228
References 229

Chapter Six Toddlerhood (2 to 4 Years) 236

Developmental Tasks 238
Elaboration of Locomotion 238
Fantasy Play 240
The Role of Play Companions 244
Imaginary Companions 245
Language Development 245
Prelinguistic Accomplishments 245
Words with Meaning 246
Two-Word Sentences 247
Grammatical Transformations 248
Milestones and Limitations 249
Interaction and Language Development 251
The Language Environment 254
Self-Control 256
Control of Impulses 257
Self-Regulated Goal Attainment 260
Summary 262
The Psychosocial Crisis: Autonomy versus Shame and Doubt 263
Toilet Training 264
The Central Process: Imitation 265
Summary 267
Applied Topics: Discipline and Day Care 267

Discipline 267
The Discipline Context 270
Day Care 272
Essential Features of Quality Day Care 273
The Impact of Day Care 275
Next Steps 277
Chapter Summary 278
References 278

Chapter Seven Early School Age (4 to 6 Years) 284
Developmental Tasks 286
Sex-Role Identification 286
Understanding Gender 287
Sex-Role Standards 288
Identification with Parents 290
Sex-Role Preference 292
Sex-Role Identification and the Interpretation of Experiences 293
Early Moral Development 294
Learning Theory 294
Cognitive-Developmental Theory 296
Psychoanalytic Theory 298
Research on the Development of Conscience 299
Research on Empathy and Perspective Taking 300
Research on Parental Discipline 303
Summary 303
Self-Esteem 305
The Self-Theory 305
Self-Evaluation 306
Self-Esteem and the Early-School-Age Child 307
Group Play 308
Group Games 308
Friendship Groups 309
Summary 311
The Psychosocial Crisis: Initiative versus Guilt 312
The Central Process: Identification 314
Summary 317
Applied Topic: The Impact of Television 317
Cognitive Consequences 317
Socioemotional Consequences 320
Television as a Stimulus for Optimal Development 321
Advice to Parents and Teachers 322
Chapter Summary 324
References 324

Chapter Eight Middle School Age (6 to 12 Years) 328

Developmental Tasks 329
Friendship 329
Family Influences on Social Competence 331
Three Lessons of Friendship 331
Concrete Operations 335
Conservation 336
Classification Skills 338
Combinatorial Skills 339
Metacognition 341
Skill Learning 342
Self-Evaluation 345
Self-Efficacy 346
Social Expectations 347
Team Play 350
Summary 353
The Psychosocial Crisis: Industry versus Inferiority 354
The Central Process: Education 356
Summary 358
Applied Topic: Sex Education 359
Chapter Summary 361
References 362

Chapter Nine Early Adolescence (12 to 18 Years) 366

Developmental Tasks 368
Physical Maturation 368
Physical Changes in Boys 369
Physical Changes in Girls 370
The Secular Trend 373
Individual Differences in Maturation Rate 374
Summary 375
Formal Operations 375
Egocentrism 378
Factors That Promote Formal Operational Thought 380
Emotional Development 381
Membership in the Peer Group 383
Parents and Peers 386
Sexual Relationships 390
Parenthood in Early Adolescence 393
Summary 398
The Psychosocial Crisis: Group Identity versus Alienation 399
The Central Process: Peer Pressure 401
Ethnic-Group Identity 403
Summary 404

Applied Topic: Adolescent Alcohol Use 405
Chapter Summary 408
References 409

Chapter Ten Later Adolescence (18 to 22 Years) 416

Developmental Tasks 416
Independence from Parents 416
Autonomy and Leaving Home 418
Autonomy and the College Experience 419
Sex-Role Identity 421
Movement Toward a Single Standard 425
Sex Role and Career Choice 426
Sex Role and Values 427
Internalized Morality 428
Career Choice 433
Education and Career Choice 434
Sex-Role Socialization and Career Choice 435
Summary 438
The Psychosocial Crisis: Individual Identity versus Identity Confusion 439
The Central Process: Role Experimentation 445
Identity Formation and the College Environment 447
Identity Formation for Males and Females 448
Summary 449
Applied Topic: Career Decision Making 449
Chapter Summary 455
References 456

Chapter Eleven Early Adulthood (22 to 34 Years) 460

Major Concepts in the Study of Adulthood 462
Life Roles 462
Social Clock 462
Life Course 463
Functional Autonomy of Motives 465
Tendencies Toward Growth 465
Developmental Tasks 468
Marriage 468
Readiness to Marry 469
Selection of a Partner 470
Adjustment During the Early Years of Marriage 474
Communication and Marital Adjustment 475
Differences in Marital Adjustment for Women and Men 477
Adjustment in Dual-Earner Marriages 477
Childbearing 479
Childlessness 484

Work 485
Technical Skills 486
Authority Relations 486
Demands and Hazards 486
Interpersonal Relationships with Peers 487
Lifestyle 490
The Single Lifestyle 492
Summary 493
The Psychosocial Crisis: Intimacy versus Isolation 494
The Central Process: Mutuality among Peers 498
Summary 498
Applied Topic: Divorce 499
Factors Contributing to Divorce 499
Coping with Divorce 502
Chapter Summary 505
References 505

Chapter Twelve Middle Adulthood (34 to 60 Years) 510

Developmental Tasks 512
Nurturing the Marriage Relationship 512
Relationships Between Partners of the Same Sex 514
Management of the Household 515
Assessing Needs and Abilities 515
Making Decisions 516
Organizing Time 521
Setting Goals 523
Establishing Relationships with Other Social Structures 524
People Who Live Alone 525
Parenting 527
Developmental Stages of the Family 527
A Psychosocial Analysis of Contributions of Parenting to Adult Development 535
Management of a Career 537
Interpersonal Relationships 538
Authority Relationships 539
Skills 540
Midlife Career Change 541
The Impact of Joblessness 541
Work and Family Life 542
Summary 545
The Psychosocial Crisis: Generativity versus Stagnation 546
The Central Process: Person–Environment Interaction and Creativity 549
Person–Environment Interaction 549
Creativity 551
Summary 553

Applied Topic: Adults and Their Aging Parents 554
What Is Filial Obligation? 554
Who Provides Help? 555
What Factors Promote an Optimal Relationship Between Adults and Their Aging Parents? 556
Chapter Summary 557
References 558

Chapter Thirteen Later Adulthood (60 to 75 Years) 562

Developmental Tasks 566
Promoting Intellectual Vigor 566
Redirecting Energy to New Roles and Activities 572
Grandparenthood 572
Widowhood 575
Leisure Activities 575
Accepting One's Life 577
Developing a Point of View About Death 583
Bereavement and Grief 586
A Cultural Comparison 587
Summary 587
The Psychosocial Crisis: Integrity versus Despair 589
The Central Process: Introspection 590
Summary 593
Applied Topic: Retirement 593
A Look Toward the Future of Retirement 597
Chapter Summary 598
References 598

Chapter Fourteen Very Old Age (75 Until Death) 602

Developmental Tasks 606
Coping with the Physical Changes of Aging 606
Behavioral Slowing 609
Sensory Changes 609
Illness and Health 612
Developing a Psychohistorical Perspective 617
Traveling Uncharted Territory: Life Structures of the Very Old 618
Living Arrangements 620
Gender-Role Definitions 623
Summary 626
The Psychosocial Crisis: Immortality versus Extinction 627
The Central Process: Social Support 629
Summary 631
Applied Topic: Meeting the Needs of the Frail Elderly 631
Chapter Summary 637
References 637

Appendix: Variations in Life Expectancy 641
Glossary 647
Name Index 669
Subject Index 681