

Contents

Introduction	1
M. R. A. Chance and R. R. Larsen

PART 1 SOCIAL ATTENTION IN THE SUB-HUMAN PRIMATES

Attention structure as the basis of primate rank orders (reprinted from Man)	11
M. R. A. Chance

Attention structure as a determinant of social organization in the mandril (Mandrillus sphinx) and the gelada baboon (Theropithecus gelada)	29
G. R. Emory

Attention and social structure in Macaca fascicularis	51
T. K. Pitcairn

The Development of social organization in rhesus monkeys (Macaca mulatta)—an example of bimodal attention structure	83
M. J. Waterhouse and H. B. Waterhouse

Greeting behaviour, displays and rank order in a group of free- ranging chimpanzees	105
V. Reynolds and G. Luscombe

PART 2 HUMAN SOCIAL ATTENTION

The development of attention structures in young children	119
D. R. Omark and M. S. Edelman

The relation of attention and proximity to rank in preschool children	153
R. Abramovitch

Attention structure and rank specific behaviour in preschool children B. C. L. Hold	177
Attention structure and the evolution of human psychological characteristics J. H. Barkow	203
Attention, advertance and social control H. M. W. Callan	221
On the evolution of rules J. S. Chisholm	235
Charisma: A reinterpretation R. R. Larsen	253
Attentional struggles and silencing strategies in a human political conflict: The case of the Vietnam moratoria H. Beck	273
Social attention: Society and mentality M. R. A. Chance	315
Index	337