

CONTENTS

1. Time of hope (1906–1911)	1
The Liberals come to power	1
External problems	10
Liberal legislation and the People's Budget of 1909	12
The two elections of 1910 and the House of Lords	19
Social and class structure	23
The ideas of the Edwardians	25
2. Heedless of their fate (1911–1914)	34
Social reform and other legislation	34
Threats to stability: unions and suffragettes	38
Threats to stability: Ireland	45
Future prospects: tension in politics and art	50
The outbreak of war	54
A note on statistical evidence	58
3. ' Blow out, you bugles, over the rich dead ' (1914–1918)	60
Grand strategy	60
The volunteers' war	61
Asquith's last year	67
Lloyd George's first year	76
1918	83
4. Rooted in nothing (1918–1922)	91
The Peace Settlement of 1919	91
The post-war mood	98
Legislation and economics	104
Post-war nationalism: Ireland, India, and Chanak	110
5. From the Carlton Club to the General Strike (1922–1926)	119
The 1922 Parliament	119
Social issues in politics	124
The first Labour Government (1924)	128
Baldwin back in office	135
The B.B.C.	138
The General Strike of 1926	141

6. The years of inaction (1926–1931)	146
The new way of living	146
Economic attitudes and issues in the late 1920s	152
The second Labour Government (1929)	156
From economic paralysis to economic crisis	161
The establishment of the National Government in 1931	168
The National Government	173
7. The National Government (1931–1939)	177
Domestic record of the National Government	177
Foreign policy under MacDonalld and Baldwin	187
Life in the late 1930s	193
Foreign policy under Chamberlain	204
8. The military side of the war (1939–1945)	214
The first year	214
1940: alone	217
The German attack on Russia	222
A world war	223
The counter-attack begins	228
From D-Day to the end of the war	237
9. The domestic side of the war (1939–1945)	244
Gingerly into war	244
Churchill	248
Social demands of the war	252
Looking forward to the post-war world	256
The people and their government	262
10. The post-war world: dream and reality (1945–1949)	270
England's place in the world	270
Withdrawal from empire	278
The Cold War	282
Domestic policy of the Labour Government	284
Opposition to the Labour Government	294
The threat of novelty	301
11. The afterglow (1949–1956)	306
The last years of the Labour Government	306
Overseas policy under Churchill	313
Financial policy under Butler	321
Emerging from austerity	324
The 1955 General Election	332
The Suez crisis of 1956	337

12. They 'never had it so good' (1957–1961)	343
Rebuilding after Suez	343
The ascendancy of Macmillan	351
Social change in the late 1950s	358
Problems after the triumph	363
Pressures for a new approach	371
13. The overstrained economy (1961–1967)	378
Conservatism in a serious mood	378
After the failure at Brussels	384
The new government and the economic position	393
Social attitudes and external problems	401
Labour on its own	409
14. Cracking under the strain (1968–1976)	418
The last years of the Labour Government	418
Heath in control	429
Out of control	437
One step at a time	446
15. The end of an old song (1976–1985)	462
Labour on a tightrope	462
Labour and Conservatives on a tightrope	475
Who dares wins	485
The government attack on the collectivist state	496
16. Withering away	505
The role of government	505
Europe	508
Discontent	512
After Thatcher	520
BIBLIOGRAPHY	529
ADDENDUM	543
MAPS, CHARTS, AND TABLES	545
INDEX	569