

Contents

| | |
|------------------------|---|
| Acknowledgements | V |
|------------------------|---|

Ursula Schaefer

| | |
|--|---|
| Linguistics, Ideology and the Discourse of Linguistic Nationalism: Some Preliminary Remarks | 1 |
|--|---|

Andrew James Johnston

| | |
|--|----|
| “Rum, Ram, Ruf”: Chaucer and Linguistic Whig History..... | 37 |
|--|----|

Göran Wolff

| | |
|--|----|
| The ‘Language of the bravest, wisest, most powerful, and respectable Body of People’: The Discourse on Language and Nation in 18th-Century Grammars of English.. | 53 |
|--|----|

Stephanie Hackert

| | |
|--|----|
| Of Old and New Anglo-Saxons: The Native Speaker and Nationalism in English-Speaking Countries | 77 |
|--|----|

Tom Shippey

| | |
|--|----|
| Philological Triumphs, Ideological Failures..... | 97 |
|--|----|

Hans-Martin Gauger

| | |
|--|-----|
| Nationalism as a Factor in the Birth of Linguistics and Nationalism in Linguistic Criticism | 117 |
|--|-----|

Claudia Lange

| | |
|---|-----|
| “Hindi Never, English Ever”: Language Nationalism and Linguistic Conflicts in Modern India | 133 |
|---|-----|

Karl Maroldt

| | |
|--|-----|
| Ideological Bends in the Creolization Debate | 155 |
|--|-----|

Gavin Falconer

| | |
|---|-----|
| A Second National Language? Substrate and Standard in Irish Parliamentary Transcription..... | 175 |
|---|-----|