
Contents

Preface xiii

CHAPTER 1 / Social Psychology: An Overview 1

Social Psychology Defined 1, The Founding of Social Psychology 2,
Three Stages of Sociological Psychology 2, An Era of Simplism 3, A Period of Social Darwinism 3, The Role of Hypnosis in Social Psychology 3, The Wave of the Group
Mind 4, Social Psychology as the Study of Attitudes 5, Learning
Theory in Social Psychology 7, Current Trends 8

PART ONE / Social Psychology: From Antiquity to 1908

CHAPTER 2 / The Prologue to Social Psychology: From Ancient Greece to the Renaissance 11

McDougall and Ross: The First Textbooks in Psychology 11, Plato and Aristotle: Self-Fulfillment and Self-Actualization Psychology 11,
Post-Aristotelian Sociopsychological Thought: St. Augustine 13,
Scholasticism at Its Height: St. Thomas Aquinas 14, Two Influential Renaissance Thinkers: Machiavelli and Hobbes 14

CHAPTER 3 / French Contributions to
Social Psychology 16

Comte's Positivism 16, Statistical and Monographic Techniques in Social Psychology (Quételet, LePlay, Galton, Pearson, Bravais, deMoivre, de Laplace, Gauss, d'Alembert) 18, Tarde's Psychology of Imitation 18, Social Darwinism in France (Fouillée, Espinas, Worms, Vacher de Lapouge, Gobineau) 21, Durkheim's Collective Representations 23, Lévy-Bruhl's Collective Representations 25, Le Bon: The Crowd 26

CHAPTER 4 / Italian Contributions to
Social Psychology 29

Sighele's Crowd Psychology 29, Other Italian Contributions to Social Psychology (Gini, Vaccaro, Loria, Lombroso, Beccaria, Arditò) 30, Pareto's Doctrine of Residues, Derivations, and the Elite 30

CHAPTER 5 / Evolution of Social Psychology
in Germanic Countries 34

Hegel's Role 34, Marx's Communism 35, The Marxian Aftermath 36, German Folk Psychology 37, Sociologists in Psychology 39, Weber's Method and Contributions 44, Freud's Psychoanalytic Social Psychology 48, Jung's Collective Unconscious 56

CHAPTER 6 / Origins of British Social
Psychology 59

Individualism and Spencerian Evolution 59: Spencer's Evolutionism 59, Darwinism 61, Bagehot's Theory of Imitation as Social Darwinism 62 The Role of Sympathy in Social Psychology 64: David Hume 64, Adam Smith 64, Scheler's Phenomenology of Sympathy 65, McDougall's Interest in Sympathy 65 The Role of Instinct in British Social Psychology 66: Trotter's Herd Instincts 66, The Great Society of Wallas 68, Hobhouse's Mind in Evolution 69

CHAPTER 7 / Early American Social
Psychology 72

The Birth of Experimental Social Psychology as a Science 72, James: The Social Self 75, Ward's Social Telesis 76, Fiske's

Evolutionism 77, Giddings' Consciousness of Kind 78, Sumner's Folkways, In-Groups, and Ethnocentrism 79, Baldwin's Imitation and Recapitulation Theory of Social Psychology 80, Cooley's Primary Groups and Organic Theory of Society 82

PART TWO / Modern Social Psychology: From 1908 to 1930

CHAPTER 8 / McDougall and Ross: The First Texts in Social Psychology 87

McDougall's Hormic Theory of Social Psychology 87, The Pioneering Efforts of Ross 90

CHAPTER 9 / The Chicago School 92

The Social Behaviorism of Mead 93, Dewey's Humanistic Social Psychology 95, Thomas's Social Psychology of Attitudes 97, Znaniecki: Collaborator with Thomas 101, Park, Burgess, and McKenzie 102, Ellwood's Systematic Social Psychology 103

CHAPTER 10 / Allport, Bogardus, and Piaget 107

Allport's Individualistic Social Psychology 107, Bogardus and His Social Distance Scale 109, Piaget's Investigations of Child Development 111

PART THREE / The Thirties: Social Psychology's Formative Years

CHAPTER 11 / Laboratory Experimentation in Social Psychology during the Thirties 125

Overview of the Decade 125 The Columbia Contingent 127:
Gardner Murphy's Contributions to Social Psychology 127 Sherif's Psychology of Social Norms 130: Background of Muzafer Sherif 130, Assessment of the Contributions of Murphy and Sherif 137 Harvard Experiment on Anchoring 138: Volkmann's Stimulus-Anchored Scales of Judgment 138 A Voice from Cambridge 141: Bartlett's Social-Psychological Experiments on Remembering and Thinking 141

CHAPTER 12 / Anthropological Contributions to Social Psychology 145

The Functionalism of Malinowski, Radcliffe-Brown, and Sapir 145
The Columbia Anthropologists 147: Dynamic Anthropology of Boas 147, Benedict and Mead: Cultural Determinants of Personality 148, Evaluation of the Columbia Cultural Anthropologists 155 The Columbia Psychoanalytic
Anthropologists 155: The Contributions of Linton and Kardiner 156, The Modal Personality of Du Bois 161

CHAPTER 13 / The Cultural Psychoanalysts 163

Horney's Cultural Determination of Neurosis 163, Sullivan's Interpersonal Theory of Psychiatry 165, Adlerian Social Interest
Psychology 169, The Humanistic Psychoanalysis of Fromm 173

CHAPTER 14 / Field Studies Stemming from the Thirties 178

Moreno's Sociometry 178 Harvard Field Studies 184: Western Electric Investigations: The Hawthorne Experiment 184, The Miller
Hawks Experiment by Zalesnik, Christensen, and Roethlisberger 188,
Homans's Elementary Social Behavior Theory 193, McClelland's
Key Hypothesis of the Achieving Society 206, Other Field
Research on Groups 220

CHAPTER 15 / The Era of Attitude Measurement: The Thurstone, Likert, and Guttman Scales 222

Thurstone's Similar Attributes or Method of Equal Appearing Intervals 223, Likert Technique for Attitude Measurement 231,
Guttman's Cumulative Scaling Method in Attitude Measurement 235,
Postwar Techniques of Attitude Measurement 243, Coombs's
Unfolding Technique and Theory of Data 243, Conclusion 244

PART FOUR / Social Psychology Comes of Age

CHAPTER 16 / Neopsychoanalytic Contributions to Social Psychology 247

The Berkeley Researchers and the Authoritarian Personality 247:
Adorno, Frenkel-Brunswik, Levinson, and Sanford 247, Premises and Conclusions regarding the Authoritarian Personality 248, Methodology 250, Critique of the Authoritarian Personality 257

Erikson's Psychosocial Identity 261: Summary of Erikson's Theory of Psychosocial Identity 263, Gandhi's Truth 268, Critique of Erikson's Theory 268 The Katz-Sarnoff Psychoanalytic Theory of Attitudes: A Functional Approach 269: Motivational Bases of Attitude 269, The Katz Functional Theory of Attitudes 271, Sarnoff's Psychoanalytic Theory of Attitudes 272, Critique of the Katz-Sarnoff Attitude Theory 275 Bion's Experiences in Groups 276:
The Schutz Three-Dimensional Theory of Interpersonal Behavior 280:
 FIRO 285, Concluding Comments on Schutz's Three-Dimensional
 Theory 286 Bales's Interaction Process Analysis 287

CHAPTER 17 / The Gestalt Influence I: The Asch-Lewinian Era and the Contributions from the Research Center for Group Dynamics 293

Field Theory Orientation in Social Psychology 293: Relation of Cognitive Theory to Other Approaches 294, The Gestalt
 Influence 295 Lewin's Field Theory in Social Psychology 296:
 Influences on Lewin 297, Characteristics of the Field Theory
 Approach 298, Methodology in Social Psychology 299, Dynamic
 Concepts of Lewin's Field Theory 301, Lissner and Mahler's
 Experiments on Substitute Value 303, The Person as a Complex
 Energy Field 303, Level of Aspiration 307, Group Dynamics:
 Experimentally Induced Group Atmospheres 309, Assessment of Lewinian Field Theory of Social Psychology 312 Asch's Experiments on Group Pressure 316: The Gestalt Approach to Social Psychology 316, Concluding Comments 319 Deutsch's Theory of Cooperation and Competition 320

CHAPTER 18 / The Gestalt Influence II: Cognitive Consistency Theories 323

Heider's Cognitive Balance Theory of Interpersonal Relations:
p-o-x Theory 323, Structural Balance Theory of Cartwright and Harary 340, Cartwright's Field Theory of Social Power 352,
 French's Field Theory of Social Influence and Power 356, Newcomb's
 Theory of Communicative Acts: The A-B-X System 366, Osgood-Suci-
 Tannenbaum Congruity Principle 378, Abelson and Rosenberg:
 Affective-Cognitive Consistency Theory 401

CHAPTER 19 / The Gestalt Influence III: Cognitive Dissonance Theories (the Festinger Tradition) 416

Festinger's Theory of Cognitive Dissonance and Social Comparison 416,
Brehm-Cohen Modifications of Cognitive Consistency 436,
Aronson-Mills Liking Theory 444

CHAPTER 20 / Learning Theory Approach to Social Behavior 454

The Yale Contingent 455, Yale Communication Research
Program 463, McGuire's Inoculation Theory 486, Doob's
Theory of Propaganda and S-R Theory of Attitudes 491,
Thibaut-Kelley Theory of Dyadic Relationships 495, Kelley's
Attribution Theory 500, Bandura's Modeling Theory 504,
Harvard's Skinner and His Champions 512, Adams-Romney Operant
Approach to Authority 522, Bem's Radical Behaviorism 525

Concluding Remarks 533

References 534

Name Index 577

Subject Index 585