

Contents

PART 1. THEORIES, METHODS, AND ORIENTATION 1

1. Theories as Explanations of Social Behavior 3

- I. Theories in social psychology 6
- II. How did Rasputin gain control over the Tsarina of Russia? 7
- III. Psychoanalytic theory 11
- IV. Role theory 16
- V. Stimulus-response and social-learning theories 19
- VI. Gestalt theory and cognitive theory 21
- VII. Field theory 25
- VIII. A comparison of theories 27
- IX. The future of theories in social psychology 29
- X. What do social psychologists do? 32
- XI. Summary 32

2. Methods of Studying Social Behavior (By Stuart Oskamp) 35

- I. The scientific method 36
- II. Experimental research versus correlational research 42
- III. Major methods of social-psychological research 45
- IV. Research problems in analyzing human products 57
- V. Research problems in asking questions 58
- VI. Research problems in watching people 65
- VII. Research problems in manipulating conditions 67
- VIII. Expectations for the future 73
- IX. Summary 74

PART 2. FORMING AND SUSTAINING RELATIONSHIPS 75

3. Social Perception: Forming Impressions of People 77

- I. The need to predict and understand others 79
- II. The future of our assumptions about human nature 92
- III. Forming an impression of a specific person—like peeling an onion? 95

- IV. The power of first impressions 98
- V. The attribution of cause 100
- VI. The accuracy of our judgments of others 104
- VII. Future trends in the study of social perception 112
- VIII. Summary 113

4. Impression Management (By Mark Snyder) 115

- I. The nature of impression management 116
- II. Self-presentation: The same person, just a different face? 118
- III. In search of a "consistent" public image 121
- IV. The quest for social approval 125
- V. Ingratiation 128
- VI. Impression management and social influence 134
- VII. Self-disclosure: The private "I" goes public 138
- VIII. Detecting impression management in others 140
- IX. A time to reflect: Impression management and human nature 143
- X. Summary 143

5. From Affiliation to Attraction to Love 147

- I. Why do we want to be with others? 147

- II. Affiliation as a response to anxiety 150
- III. Waiting with others—Does it reduce anxiety? 154
- IV. The determinants of emotional and motivational states 156
- V. Attraction 161
- VI. Love—The ultimate in affiliation? 169
- VII. Summary 175

6. The Social Psychology of Sexual Behavior 177

- I. The multitude of problems in studying sexual behavior 179
- II. Sexual development and identity 181
- III. Mistaken beliefs about sexual physiology and response 192
- IV. Heterosexual behavior 196
- V. Social influences on sexual behavior 204
- VI. Summary 208

PART 3. BEHAVIOR TOWARD OTHERS 209

7. Aggression and Violence 211

- I. Definitions of aggression 212
- II. Pro-instinct positions and biological explanations of aggression 215
- III. Aggression as a possibly innate response activated by frustration 218
- IV. Prolearning positions 226
- V. A recapitulation and attempt at resolution 229
- VI. Violence and the mass media 230
- VII. Collective violence in society—Yesterday, today, and tomorrow 234

- VIII. Experimental attempts to control aggression 239
- IX. Summary 240

8. Moral Judgments and Behavior (By John O'Connor) 243

- I. Conceptions of the development of morality in Western culture 244
- II. Psychoanalytic explanations of moral development 245
- III. Research in psychoanalysis 251
- IV. A critique of the psychoanalytic approach to morality 254

- V. Cognitive theories of moral development 254
- VI. Research on cognitive approaches 264
- VII. A critique of the cognitive approach 269
- VIII. Social-learning theory 270
- IX. Morality research in social learning 271
- X. A critique of social-learning approaches 273
- XI. An attempt at integration 273
- XII. Summary 275

9. Prosocial Behavior: Cooperation and Helping (By Carol Sigelman) 277

- I. The importance of prosocial behavior 279
- II. Cooperation: Working for mutual benefit 283
- III. Helping behavior: From handouts to heroism 287
- IV. Toward a prosocial society 308
- V. Summary 311

PART 4. ATTITUDES AND ATTITUDE CHANGE 313

10. Attitudes and Behavior: Prejudice and Discrimination 315

- I. The nature of attitudes 316
- II. Distinctions among Terms: Prejudice, Discrimination, and Racism 322
- III. The costs and extent of prejudice, discrimination, and racism 325
- IV. The causes of prejudice and discrimination 332
- V. Social distance: A result of perceived dissimilarity in beliefs? 337
- VI. Attitudes as predictors of behavior 342
- VII. Summary 348

11. Theories of Attitude Change 351

- I. Attitude change and nonchange 352
- II. Stimulus-response and reinforcement theories of attitude change 353
- III. The social-judgment theory of attitude change 357
- IV. Consistency theories of attitude change 364
- V. Self-perception theory 379
- VI. Functional theories of attitude change 382
- VII. The future of theories of attitude change 385
- VIII. Summary 386

12. Attitude Change: Outcomes 389

- I. What causes attitudes to change? 389
- II. Effects of components of the persuasive communication 392
- III. Reducing prejudice: The contact hypothesis 394
- IV. Factors facilitating change in face-to-face contact 395
- V. Bringing the beneficial factors together: Stuart Cook's study 397
- VI. Why do some people change their attitudes when others do not? 405
- VII. Summary 408

13. Changing Society and Its Institutions 411

- I. Pure science or applied science--Or both? 412
- II. Kurt Lewin and action research 416
- III. Social psychologists as change agents 418
- IV. "Unplanned" social change 427
- V. Examples of social change 432
- VI. Youth and social change 435
- VII. "Future shock" and the usefulness of utopias 439
- VIII. Summary 443

PART 5. GROUP DIFFERENCES 44514. The Social Psychology of Sex Roles
(By Kay Deaux) 447

- I. The question of heredity versus environment 448
- II. Sex differences in aptitude and personality 457
- III. Perceptions of sex differences: The eye of the beholder 463
- IV. Equality and the future 467
- V. Summary 472

15. Similarities and Differences among Races and Social Classes 475

- I. The concept of race 475
- II. Racial differences in intelligence-test scores 479

- III. Interpretations of the findings 481
- IV. Comparisons between Whites and races other than Black 495
- V. Social-class similarities and differences 496
- VI. The interpretation of social-class differences in intelligence 499
- VII. A study of race and social class varied concurrently 504
- VIII. Expectations for the future and a final caution 506
- IX. Summary 507

PART 6. ENVIRONMENTAL AND GROUP INFLUENCES 50916. Interpersonal Behavior and the Physical Environment (By Eric Sundstrom) 511

- I. Personal space and interpersonal distance 513
- II. Territorial behavior 521
- III. Environmental determination—Effects of physical arrangements on interactions 530
- IV. Crowding: Too many people, not enough space 536
- V. Summary 548

17. The Behavior of Groups 551

- I. What is a group? 551
- II. Do groups have effects beyond those of the individuals in them? 553
- III. Qualities affecting the influence of groups 564
- IV. T-groups and encounter groups 569
- V. Communal groups 572
- VI. Summary 579

18. Authoritarianism, Obedience, and Repression in Our Society 581

- I. Authoritarianism within the person 583
- II. Destructive obedience—A behavioral analogue of authoritarianism? 594
- III. Authoritarianism in our society 600
- IV. Authoritarianism in the future 603
- V. Summary 604

19. Conformity and Social Influence 607

- I. Definitions of conformity and related phenomena 608
- II. Early procedures and findings in the study of conformity (compliance) 611
- III. The extent of conformity 616
- IV. Is there a conforming personality? 620

- V. Is conformity increasing in our society? 624
- VI. Unresolved issues in the study of conformity and nonconformity 627
- VII. Other effects of social influence: Group risk taking and polarization 628
- VIII. Hypnosis: Something more than simply social influence? 633
- IX. Summary 634

20. The Social Psychology of Leadership and Organizational Effectiveness 637

- I. Early approaches to leadership--The search for distinguishing traits 637
- II. Leadership as an influence on group functioning 643

- III. Fiedler's contingency theory of leadership 648
- IV. Leadership, organizational effectiveness, and assumptions about human nature 654
- V. Summary 660

Glossary 663

References 673

Author Index 737

Subject Index 751