

Contents

Abbreviations	xi
List of Illustrations	xii
Introduction	1
1. Biography and Domestic Life	10
1.1 Biography and Domestic Ideology: 1750–1840	11
1.2 The Publication of ‘Domestick Privacies’	23
2. Biography and the Romantic Poet	31
2.1 Contested Property: Coleridge, Wordsworth, and the Resistance to Biography, 1810–1816	31
2.2 Poetry and Biography in the Marketplace, 1820–1840	44
2.3 Bringing the Poet Home to the Reader: The Defence of Biography	50
3. The Lives of Byron	58
3.1 The Ownership of Private Life	64
3.2 Biographical Transgressions	68
3.3 Genius and Domestic Life	72
3.4 The Promise of Intimacy: Byron and His Readers	77
3.5 The Experience of Intimacy: Early Byron Biography	82
3.6 The Feminine Eye	95
4. Biography and the Shelleys	101
4.1 Mary Shelley as a Biographer	107
4.2 Making Shelley ‘Beloved’: The Poet and His Readers	114
4.3 A Contest of Genres	120
4.4 The Lardner Lives	125
4.5 Shelley’s Domestic Affections	129
4.6 Air and Earth: Mary Shelley’s Legacy	140
5. De Quincey and the Lake Poets	147
5.1 De Quincey as Auto/Biographer	151
5.2 De Quincey and the Reader	156
5.3 Tait’s Edinburgh Magazine	158
5.4 The Domestication of Coleridge and Wordsworth	163
5.5 Coleridge	169
5.6 Wordsworth	178

6. The Female Poet: The AfterLives of Felicia Hemans and Letitia Landon	191
6.1 Hemans, Landon, and the Poetess Tradition	195
6.2 The 'creature of hearth and home': Felicia Hemans	200
6.3 Death of the Poetess: Letitia Landon	215
Bibliography	227
Index	245