

Contents

Acknowledgements	page xi
Preface	1
1 Nineteenth-Century Political Economy and the Problem of War	7
2 The Strategy of 'Business as Usual'	22
3 Munitions and the Edwardian Army	39
4 Economic Planning for 'Business as Usual'	51
5 The Limits of Prewar Planning	74
6 The July Crisis	85
7 The Failure of 'Business as Usual'	98
8 Kitchener and the Creation of the 'Nation in Arms', August–December 1914	124
9 The War in France, 1914–15	138
10 Lloyd George and Total War	151
11 Conclusion: The Unresolved Dilemmas of Economic Strategy	170
Select Bibliography	180
Index	188