

Contents

Series editor's introduction ix

Preface xv

Acknowledgments xvii

1 Introduction 1

Part One Critique

2 The internal critique of social psychology 13

3 Knowledge critique: a general approach 24

4 Knowledge critique: social psychology 36

Part Two Theory

5 Alternative viewpoints: foundations of a critical social psychology 55

6 Dimensions of a critical social psychology: production, lived experience and class 77

Part Three Analysis

7 The end of social interaction 97

8 The new self: breakdown or breakthrough? 117

9 Intimacy: the contraction of the social 141

10 Conclusion: social psychology and social change 157

Bibliography 169

Index 184