

CONTENTS

	Introduction	7
1	The Structure of Government by W. D. Birrell, B. A., Dip. S. S. The System of Government: The Constitution p. 10; The Prime Minister and the Cabinet p. 12; Parliament – The House of Commons p. 14; The House of Lords p. 17. The Political System: The Electoral System p. 18; The Political Parties p. 20; Voting Behaviour and Political Attitudes p. 23; Pressure Groups p. 25. The Administrative System: Central Administration p. 27; The Civil Service p. 27; The British Ombudsman p. 29; Local Government p. 29; Regional Government p. 30	9
2	The Post-War British Economy by J. W. Garmany, M. A., B. Litt. Introduction p. 32; Population, Manpower and Employment p. 35; Economic Growth p. 37; Industrial Relations p. 40; The Balance of Payments p. 43; Public Expenditure p. 48; Consumer Spending p. 52; Regional Development p. 52; Conclusions p. 56	32
3	The Present-day Social and Economic Geography of England and Wales by K. L. Wallwork, M. A., Ph. D. Population p. 58; Employment p. 62; The Changing pattern of Mining and Manufacturing Industry p. 65; The Growth of Tertiary Industries p. 71; Transport p. 73; Road Transport p. 74; Railway Transport p. 76; Inland Waterways and Ports p. 77; Air Transport p. 79; Settlement Geography p. 80; The Changing Pattern of Land Use p. 87	58
4	The Development of the Social Services since 1945 by R. S. Mills, M. A., Ph. D. and A. P. Williamson, M. A. Social Security p. 90; The Employment Services p. 97; The National Health Service p. 98; Social Services and	90

the Environment: Town and Country Planning p. 103; Housing p. 106; The Personal Social Services p. 108
5 The Educational Debate since 1944 by F. F. Bridges, B. Sc., M. A.	112
The 1944 Education Act p. 112; Secondary Education p. 114; Special Schools p. 119; Primary Education p. 120; Educational Psychology and Sociology p. 124; The Schools Council p. 127; Higher Education p. 128; Teacher Train- ing p. 132; The James Report p. 133; Inspectorate of Edu- cation p. 136
6 The Irish Question by M. Hayes, B. A., Ll. D. h. c.	143
7 Clichés and Barriers between Cultures by P. F. Botheroyd, M. A., Ph. D.	162
Notes	172
Suggestions for Further Reading	177