

Contents

Series Editors' Introduction	xi
Preface	xiii
Acknowledgments	xvi
1. Talking Sense: Shared Meaning and Talk as a Basis for Relationships	1
Understanding Other People	6
Contexts That Give Information Meaning	7
Some Words About Talk	9
Talk as a Source of Information About Other People	10
Talk as a Persuasive Tool	11
Talk as a Vantage Point	13
Meaning in Relational Context	15
Sharing Meaning	16
Meaning as "Going Beyond the Given"	16
Linking Different Sets of Ideas	19
Linking People and Minds	21

Metaphors as Guides for Relationships and Research	23
Metaphors as Figures of Thought About Relationships	23
Metaphors of Love	24
Metaphors of Relationship Change	27
Metaphors of Relationships and Relationship Problems	30
Metaphors in Relationship Research	31
Summary and Conclusions	36

2. Human Relational Life in Its Context: 39

Living With the Possible	39
Overview	40
The Importance of Change and Constancy in Everyday Life	40
Segmenting Experience Into Chunks and Units	41
Segmenting Relationships Into States and Stages	43
Negotiating Segments of Relationship Experience	45
Segmenting as Experience	46
Conducting Unfinished Business	47
A Cultural Context for Unfinished Business	48
Personal and Audience Contexts for Unfinished Business	50
Relationships as Unfinished Business	51
Making Choices as Making Meaning	53
Choices and Contrasts	55
Social Influences on Choices for Making Meaning	55
Culture as a Guide for Choice	57
Expressing Meaning to Others	58
Communication Is More Than Just Expression	59
Speech as a Sampler of Meaning	61
Summary and Conclusions	63
An Appendix of Formal Statements	64

3. One Mind Encounters Another 67

Overview	67
Temporal Contexts and Relationship Thinking	69
A Small Cup of Mead	69

Stripping Temporal Variation From Real Lives	71
Putting Temporal Factors Back Into Relationships	73
Language Contexts and Relational Thinking	77
The Rhetoric of Motives	78
The Grammar of Motives	79
A Rhetoric of Inference	80
Grouping Inferences and Framing	82
A Brief Recap	87
Construing and Relating	89
Webs of Construing	89
Relating as Understanding the Organization of Meaning	91
Relational Interdependence	92
Summary and Conclusions	94
An Appendix of Formal Statements	95
4. Two Minds Together in Social Context:
Guides to Personal Meaning	97
Overview	97
Psychological Similarity	99
What Is It? The Many Faces of Psychological Similarity	101
Elements of Similarity	102
Meaning Systems as Multilayered	107
Similarity as a Research Topic	109
One Way It Works:
Similarity as a Rhetorical Instrument	110
Similarity as a Constructive Perception	111
Talk and the Detection of Similarity	113
Why It Matters:
Similarity Between Minds as an Example of the Social Process of Meaning Construction	115
Similarity in Social Context	115
A Model of the Serial Construction of Meaning	116
Beliefs About Similarity as Relational Forces	121
Similarity, Meaning, and Social Action	123
Summary and Conclusions	124
An Appendix of Formal Statements	125
5. The Social Action of Relating:
Talk and Meaning	127
Overview	127

Some Views of Meaning Construction in Relational Life	129
Realist and Relativist Views of Relational Phenomena	132
Detecting the Processes of Meaning	137
Persuasion, Meaning, and Everyday Talk	141
Talk as Evidence About the Personal Meaning of a Relationship	141
Talk as a Basis for Negotiating Meaning	144
Talk as an Indicator of Relationship Features	146
Talk as a Constructor of Shared Meaning	149
Talk and Memory in Relationships	151
Summary and Conclusions	153
An Appendix of Formal Statements	154
6. Meaning and Research	156
Overview	156
Process and Meaning	157
New Lamps for Old:
Another Look at Familiar Topics	160
Sharing and Exchanging	160
Self-Disclosure	166
Love and Attachment Styles	168
A Look Ahead: Future Research Topics	172
Relationships and Real Life	172
The Conduct of Diverse Relationships	176
Some Final Personal Meaning	179
References	181
Author Index	200
Subject Index	205
About the Author	209