

Contents

Preface	xviii
Guide to Special Features	xxviii

1

What Is Social Psychology?

1

A Definition of Social Psychology	3
The Scientific Study . . .	4
. . . of the Effects of Social and Cognitive Processes	4
. . . on the Way Individuals Perceive, Influence, and Relate to Others	6
Social Psychology's Special Perspective	7
Historical Trends and Current Themes in Social Psychology	9
Social Psychology Becomes an Empirical Science	10
Social Psychology Splits from General Psychology over What Causes Behavior	11
The Rise of Nazism Shapes the Development of Social Psychology	12
Growth and Integration	14
Integration of Cognitive and Social Processes	14
Integration of Basic Science and Social Problems	15
How the Approach of This Book Reflects an Integrative Perspective	17
Two Fundamental Axioms of Social Psychology	18
Construction of Reality	18
Pervasiveness of Social Influence	19
Three Motivational Principles	20
People Strive for Mastery	20
People Seek

Connectedness	21
People Value "Me and Mine"	21
Three Processing Principles	21
Conservatism: Established Views Are Slow to Change	21
Accessibility: Accessible Information Has Large Effects	22
Superficiality Versus Depth: People Can Process Superficially or in Depth	22
Good and Bad Outcomes	23
Plan of the Book	24
Summary	26

2

Asking and Answering Research Questions

29

Research Questions and the Role of Theory	30
Research Questions and Scientific Theory	31
Testing Theories: From Theory to Research	33
Construct Validity: Assessing Constructs	33
Threats to Construct Validity	34
Ensuring Construct Validity	37
Internal Validity: Assessing Causal Relations	39
Threats to Internal Validity	40
Ensuring Internal Validity	41
Experimental Versus Nonexperimental Research Designs	42
External Validity: Assessing Generalizability	43
Generalizing to Versus Generalizing Across People and Places	44
Threats to External Validity	46
Cultures and External Validity	48
Ensuring External Validity	49
Evaluating Theories: The Bottom Line	50
The Importance of Replication	52
Competition with Other Theories	52
Getting the Bias Out	53

The Role of Ethics and Values in Research 56

Being Fair to Subjects 57

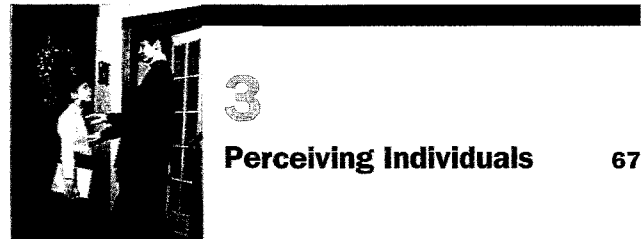

The Use of Deception in Research 59

Being Helpful to Society 61

Concluding Comments 62

Summary 63

Overview 65

Perceiving Individuals 67

Forming First Impressions: Cues, Interpretations, and Inferences 68

The Raw Materials of First Impressions 69

Impressions from Physical Appearance 69

Physical Appearance in the Workplace 71

Impressions from Nonverbal Communication 71

Detection of Deception 72

Lie Detection in the Legal System 73

Impressions from Behavior 73

Which Cues Capture Attention? 73

Interpreting Cues 74

The Role of Associations in Interpretation 75

The Role of Accessibility in Interpretation 75

Chronic Accessibility and Mental Health 80

Characterizing the Behaving Person: Correspondent Inferences 80

When Is a Correspondent Inference Justified? 81

The Correspondence Bias: People Are What They Do 82

Correspondence Bias in the Workplace 83

How Associations Affect Correspondent Inferences 83

Beyond First Impressions: Attribution and Integration 85

Sources of Attributions 86

Attributions to Associated Causes 86

Attributions to Accessible Causes 86

Attributions to Salient Causes 88

Attributions Based on Covariation Information 89

Correcting First Impressions 91

Putting It All Together: Forming Complex Impressions 92

Inferring One Trait from Another 93

Integrating Multiple Characteristics 93

The Accuracy of Considered Impressions 94

Motivation to Be Accurate 94

Motivation to Form a Positive or Negative Impression 95

Awareness of Bias 96

The Impact of Impressions: Using, Defending, and Changing Impressions 97

Impressions and Judgments 97

Superficial Processing: Using a Single Attribute 98

Which Attribute Will Be Used? 98

Extensive Processing: Integrating Multiple Factors 100

Defending Impressions 100

Impressions Shape Interpretations 101

Impressions Resist Rebuttal 101

Perseverance in the Courtroom 102

Selectively Seeking Impression-Consistent Behavior 102

Creating Impression-Consistent Behavior: The Self-Fulfilling Prophecy 103

Self-Fulfilling Prophecy in the Classroom 104

Limits on the Self-Fulfilling Prophecy 104

Dealing with Inconsistent Information 105

Reconciling Inconsistencies 106

Altering Impressions: Is Fundamental Change Possible? 107

Concluding Comments 108

Summary 109

Overview 111

The Self 113

Constructing the Self-Concept: What We Know About Ourselves 114

Sources of Self-Knowledge 114

Drawing Inferences from Behavior 115

Imagined Performances in Sports Training 115

Self-Perception of Motivation 116

Drawing Inferences from Thoughts and Feelings 117

Effects of Other People's Reactions 117

Social Comparison 118

Self-Knowledge and Other-Knowledge: The Same or Different? 119

Differences in Amount of Knowledge 120

Differences in Attribution 120

Similarities in Accuracy 122

Multiple Selves 122

Putting It All Together: Constructing a Coherent Self-Concept 124

Coherence Through Limited Accessibility 124

Coherence Through Selective Memory 124

Coherence Through Attribution 125

Coherence Through Selecting

a Few Key Traits 125 Coherence in Different Cultures 126

Constructing Self-Esteem: How We Feel About Ourselves 128

Self-Enhancement: I Am the Greatest! 129

Sources of Self-Esteem 130

- The Pain but Mainly Gain of Personal Experiences 130
- Personality Differences in the Impact of Experiences 131
- Social Comparisons: Better or Worse Than Others? 133
- Biased Comparisons: Definitely Better Than Others 134
- Evaluating the Self Against Internal Standards: Self-Guides 134
- Biased Estimates of How We Measure Up 136

Effects of the Self: Directing Emotion and Behavior 138

The Self and Emotions: For Me or Against Me? 138

- Where Do Emotions Come From? 139
- Changing Appraisals in Clinical Settings 141
- Appraisals, Emotions, Bodily Responses: All Together Now 141

The Self in Action: Self and Behavior 142

- Self-Expression: I Am What I Am 143
- Self-Presentation: I Am What You Want Me to Be 144
- From Self to Behavior, and Back Again 145
- Personality Differences in Behavior: Self-Monitoring 146

Defending the Self: Coping with Stresses, Inconsistencies, and Failures 147

Threats to the Well-Being of the Self 147

- Emotional and Physical Effects of Threat 148
- Threat and Appraisals of Control 148
- Control and Depression 149

Escaping from Threat: Emotion-Focused Coping 151

- Escaping from Threat: Shipping Out 151
- Ignoring Threat: Anything to Take My Mind Off It 151
- Downplaying Threat: Accentuate the Positive, Eliminate the Negative 152
- Protecting Self-Esteem in the Classroom 153
- Working Through Threat: Talking It Out 153
- Self-Expression and Coping with Unemployment 154

Attacking Stress Head-On: Problem-Focused Coping 154

- Biased Evaluation: What Problem? 155
- Making Excuses: It's Not My Problem 155
- Self-Handicapping 156
- Taking Control of the Problem 156
- Control in the Classroom 158
- Solving the Problem: Rising to the Challenge 158

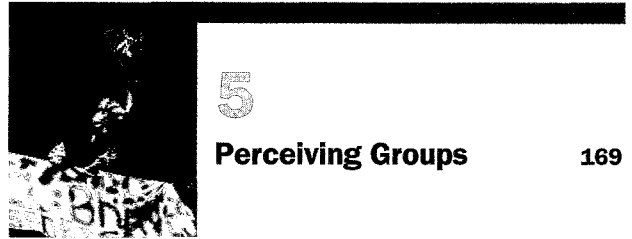

How to Cope? 160

- Personality Resources for Coping 160
- Controllability and Coping 161
- Costs and Benefits of Coping Strategies 162

Concluding Comments 163

Summary 164

Overview 166

Perceiving Groups 169

The Social and Cognitive Roots of Prejudice 171

What Causes Prejudice? 171

- The Authoritarian Personality Explanation 172
- Social Influences: A Primer for Prejudice 172
- Cognitive Factors: A Nurturing and Sustaining Force 172
- Social Identity 173

Targets of Prejudice: Social Groups 173

Social Categorization: Dividing the World into Social Groups 175

Forming Impressions of Groups: Establishing Stereotypes 177

The Content of Stereotypes 177

- Stereotypes Include Many Types of Characteristics 177
- Even Positive Stereotypes Can Have Negative Consequences 178
- Stereotypes Can Be Accurate or Inaccurate 179

Forming Stereotypes Through Personal Experience 180

- People Notice Some Members More Than Others 181
- Some Information Attracts More Attention Than Other Information 181
- Social Roles Trigger Correspondence Biases 183
- Social Roles and Gender Stereotypes 185
- Interactions and Emotion 187

Forming Stereotypes Through Social Learning 188

- Learning Stereotypes from Others 189
- Learning Stereotypes from the Media 189
- Gender Stereotypes and the Media 190

Forming Stereotypes That Justify Inequalities 191

Using Stereotypes: From Preconceptions to Prejudice 194

What Activates Stereotypes? 194

Stereotypic Snap Judgments 196

- Less Capacity, More Stereotyping 197
- More Emotion, More Stereotyping 198

Stereotypes and Considered Judgments 199

- Seeking Evidence to Confirm the Stereotype: Just Tell Me Where to Look 199
- Interpreting Evidence to Fit the Stereotype: Well, If You Look at It That Way 200
- Constraining Evidence to Fit the Stereotype: The Self-Fulfilling Prophecy 202
- Self-Fulfilling Prophecies in School 202
- Self-Fulfilling Prophecies at Work 202

Changing Stereotypes: Overcoming Bias to Reduce Prejudice 204

Intergroup Contact: Will Getting to Know Individuals Change Group Stereotypes? 204

Barriers to Stereotype Change: Is Contact Enough? 205

 Explaining Away Inconsistent Information 205

 Compartmentalizing Inconsistent Information 206

 Differentiating Atypical Group Members: Contrast Effects 207

Overcoming Stereotype Defenses: The Kind of Contact That Works 208

 Repeated Inconsistency: An Antidote for “Explaining Away” 208

 Widespread Inconsistency: An Antidote for Subtyping 208

 Being Typical as Well as Inconsistent: An Antidote for Contrast Effects 209

 The Effectiveness of Contact 209

 Intergroup Contact in the Neighborhood 210

Overcoming Automatically Activated Stereotypes: The Will Provides the Way 211

Concluding Comments 213

Summary 215

Overview 216

 Perceiving Fellow In-Group Members 230

 Liking In-Group Others: To Be Us Is to Be Lovable 231

 Treating the In-Group Right: Justice and Altruism 233

Others Become “They”: Social Categorization and the Out-Group 234

 Perceiving the Out-Group as Homogeneous: “They’re All Alike!” 235

 Out-Group Homogeneity in the Legal System 238

 Effects of Mere Categorization: They’re Different, but We’re Better 239

 Discrimination and Social Identity 240

 Effects of Perceived Disadvantage: They’re Doing Better Than We Are So Let’s Compete with Them 241

 Effects of Extreme Threat: They Threaten Us So Let’s Attack First 242

 Moral Unconcern 243

 Moral Unconcern in the Legal System 244

 Exclusion 244

When Group Memberships Are Negative 246

Defending Individual Self-Esteem 248

 Using Attributions to Advantage 248

 Attributional Ambiguity in the Workplace 250

 Making the Most of Intragroup Comparisons 250

 Women’s Self-Esteem: What’s Special About Gender? 251

Social Mobility: Escaping Negative Group Membership 252

 Disidentification: Putting the Group at a Psychological Distance 253

 Dissociation: Putting the Group at a Physical Distance 254

Social Change: Changing the Intergroup Context 255

 Social Creativity 255

 Social Competition 256

 Recategorization: Changing the Definition of In-Group 257

One Goal, Many Strategies 257

Concluding Comments 260

Summary 261

Overview 262

6

Social Identity 219

Categorizing Oneself as a Group Member 220

Learning About Our Groups 221

Accessibility of Group Memberships 222

 Direct Reminders of Membership 222

 Presence of Out-Group Members 223

 Being a Minority 223

 Conflict or Rivalry 224

 Cultural Differences in the Importance of Group Membership 225

 Personality Differences in Group Membership Importance 225

Me, You, and Them: Effects of Social Categorization 227

“I” Becomes “We”: Social Categorization and the Self 227

 Seeing Oneself as a Group Member 227

 Accessibility of Gender Identity in the Classroom 228

 Liking Ourselves: Social Identity and Self-Esteem 228

Others Become “We”: Social Categorization and the In-Group 230

7

Attitudes and Attitude Change 265

Attitudes and Their Origins 266

Measuring Attitudes 266

Direct Measures: Self-Reports and Direct Observations 267 Indirect Measures 268

Attitude Formation: Why and How? 269
 Why Attitudes Form 270 The Building Blocks of Attitudes 270 Putting It All Together 271 Linking Attitudes to Their Objects 273

From Snap Judgments to Considered Opinions: Superficial and Systematic Routes to Persuasion 274

Superficial Processing: Persuasion Shortcuts 275
 The Expertise Heuristic: Agreeing with Those Who Know 276 The Message-Length Heuristic: Length Equals Strength 277

Systematic Processing of Persuasive Communications 279
 Processing Arguments: The Central Route to Persuasion 279 The Benefits of Central Route Processing 281

Superficial and Systematic Processing: Which Strategy, When? 283
 How Motivation Influences Systematic Processing 283 Capacity Factors That Influence Systematic Processing 285 Personality Differences in Responses to Persuasive Communications 287 Cultural Differences in Persuasion 288

The Persuasive Power of Emotion: Superficial and Systematic Processing of Affective Information 290

Emotional Shortcuts: If It Feels Right, Do It 290
 Linking Affective Information to the Attitude Object 290
 Emotional Shortcuts in Marketing 291 Emotional Shortcuts and Politics 292 Attractiveness Heuristic: Agreeing with Those We Like 292 Feelings as Heuristic Cues: If I Feel Good, I Must Like It 294

Positive Affect and Systematic Processing 294
 Feeling Good but Not Always Thinking Straight 295 Motivational and Capacity Consequences of Positive Mood 295

Negative Emotions and Persuasion: Make Me Worry, Make Me Agree 296
 Fear Appeals in Advertising 296 Anxiety and Systematic Processing 297

Defending Attitudes: Resisting Persuasion 300

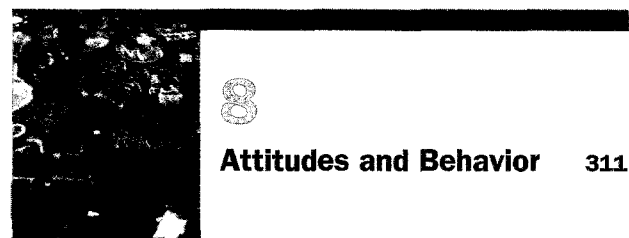

Fighting Back: Awareness Is Half the Battle 300
 Subliminal Persuasion 300 How Subliminal Influence Can Be Resisted 302

Forewarning Means Forearming 304
 Inoculation: Practice Can Be the Best Medicine 304
 Inoculation and Advertising Effectiveness 305

Concluding Comments 306

Summary 307

Overview 308

Changing Attitudes with Actions 312

Self-Perception: Inferring Attitudes from Behavior 314
 Self-Perception Theory 314 The Foot-in-the-Door Technique: Would You Mind Doing Me a Small Favor? 315 Self-Perception Processes and Charitable Giving 317 Action-to-Attitude Inferences and Superficial Processing 317

Cognitive Dissonance: Changing Attitudes to Justify Behavior 318
 The Theory of Cognitive Dissonance 319 Justifying Attitude-Discrepant Behavior: I Have My Reasons! 323 Justifying Effort: I Suffered for It, So I Like It 324 Justifying Decisions: Of Course I Was Right! 325 The Processing Payoff: Dissonance Creates Persistent Attitudes 326 Dissonance Processes and Resisting Media Influence 328 Alternatives to Attitude Change 328

Guiding Actions with Attitudes 331

How Attitudes Guide Behavior 332
 Attitudes Guide Behaviors Without Much Thought 332 Attitudes Guide Behavior Through Considered Intentions 335

When Do Attitudes Influence Action? 338
 Attitude Accessibility: Attitudes Must Come to Mind 338
 Attitude Accessibility in Clinical Settings 342 Attitude Compatibility: The Right Attitude Must Come to Mind 342 Attitude Functionality: Attitudes Provide the Easiest Route to a Decision 343 When Even Attitudes Are Not Enough 344

Concluding Comments 346

Summary 347

Overview 348

9

Groups, Norms, and Conformity

Conformity to Group Norms 353
 The Development of Social Norms 353
 Public Versus Private Conformity 357
 Conformity and Culture 358

The Dual Functions of Norms: Mastery and Connectedness 358

Expecting Consensus 358
 Consensus in the Marketplace 359

Whose Consensus? 360
 Intellective Tasks 360 Judgmental Tasks 360 Group Cohesiveness and the Influence of Group Norms 361

The Dual Functions of Norms 361
 Norms Provide Reality Insurance 361 Norms Give Us Feelings of Connectedness 363 Mastery, Connectedness, or Both? 364 Group Norms in Clinical Settings 365

Salience of Group Membership 366

How Groups Form Norms: Processes of Social Influence 367

Group Compromise: Taking the Middle Ground 368
 Group Polarization: Going to Normative Extremes 368
 Polarization in the Jury Room 369

Superficial Processing: Relying on Others' Positions 371
 The Consensus Heuristic: Looking for Reality 371
 Consensus and Connectedness: "Being the Best You Can Be" 372

Systematic Processing: Attending to Both Positions and Arguments 372

Conformity Pressure: Undermining True Consensus 376

When Consensus Seeking Goes Awry 376
 Consensus Without Consideration: Unthinking Reliance on Consensus 376 Consensus Without Independence: Contamination 377 Consensus Without Acceptance: Public Conformity 380

Consensus Seeking at Its Worst: Groupthink 381
 Causes of Groupthink 381 Remedies for Groupthink 384

Minority Influence: The Value of Dissent 385

Successful Minority Influence 385
 Offering an Alternative Consensus 386 Being Different, but Not Too Different 388 Representing Diversity 388 Promoting Systematic Processing 388 Minority Influence in the Workplace 389

Processes of Minority and Majority Influence 390
 Minority Influence in the Jury Room 392

Concluding Comments 393

Summary 394

Overview 396

10

Norms and Behavior 399

Norms: Effective Guides for Social Behavior 400

How Norms Guide Behavior 401
 Norms and the Environment 402

Why Norms Guide Behavior So Effectively 403
 Enforcement: Do It, or Else 403 Internalization: It's Right, So I Do It 404 Consensus and Support: You're Doing It, So I'll Do It Too 404 Frequent Activation: Something Made Me Think About It, So I Do It 405 Action Heuristics: I Do It Because It Makes My Life Easier 405 The Influence of Norms in the Workplace 405

Deindividuation: When Norms Overwhelm 408

The Norm of Reciprocity: Treating Others as They Treat You 410

Returning Favors 411
 The Norm of Reciprocity for Concessions 412
 The Door-in-the-Face Technique 413 Reciprocity of Concessions on the Salesfloor 414 Long-Term Benefits of Reciprocating Concessions 415

The Norm of Social Commitment: Keeping Your Promises 416

The Low-Ball Technique 416
 Long-Term Commitment: Why Do People Stay the Course? 417

The Norm of Obedience: Submitting to Authority 420

Milgram's Studies of Obedience 421

Reasons for Obedience	422	Liking, Similarity, and Interaction: Mutually Reinforcing Processes	456
▶ Obedience in Medical Settings 423		Relationship Development	458
The Power of Social Norms 424		Exchanges of Rewards: What's in It for Me? "That's Just Not Fair!"	458
The Norm of Obedience to Authority	424	Self-Disclosure	459
Authority Must Be Legitimate 425		Effects of Self-Disclosure 460
Authority Must Accept Responsibility 426		Close Relationships	462
The Norm of Obedience Must Be Accessible 427		Research on Close Relationships	462
Other Norms Must Be Less Accessible 427		Relationships in Cultural Perspective 463
Escalation and Entrapment: From the Acceptable to the Unthinkable, Gradually	428	Close Relationships Incorporate the Partner in One's Self	463
Blaming the Victim 429		Transformations in Exchange	465
From Experimental Obedience to Social Atrocities	430	Attributions in Close Relationships: It's the Thought That Counts 465
Normative Trade-Offs: The Pluses and Minuses of Obedience	431	Dealing with Interdependence 466
Rebellion and Resistance: Fighting Back	432	Intimacy and Commitment	468
Reactance: Enough Is Enough	433	Psychological Intimacy 468
Systematic Processing: Thinking Things Through	434	Commitment 469
Using Norms Against Norms	436	Types of People, Types of Relationships	471
Putting It All Together: Multiple Guides for Behavior	438	Attachment Styles 471
Both Attitudes and Norms Influence Behavior	438	Triangular Theory of Love 474
The Direct Route 439		Gender Differences in Relationships 474
The Indirect Route 440		Effects of Relationships	475
When Attitudes and Norms Conflict: Accessibility Determines Influence	441	▶ Intimacy, Social Support, and Health 475
Concluding Comments	443	Gender and Social Support 477
Summary	444	▶ Love and Work 478
Overview	446	Romantic Love and Sexuality	479
		Passionate Feelings	479
		Sexual Attitudes and Behavior	481
		Personality Differences in Sexual Attitudes 483
		Sex in the context of a Relationship	483
		When Relationships Go Wrong	485
		Unrequited Love	485
		Seeds of Trouble	486
		Interdependence and Conflict 486
		Attribution: You Did It Because You Don't Love Me 488
		Commitment 488
		Attachment Styles 489
		Conflict Processes	489
		Communicating About Conflict 489
		▶ Handling Conflicts in Everyday Life 490
		Jealousy 491
		Declining Intimacy 492
		▶ Relationship Conflict and Social Problems 492
		Breakup and Aftermath	493
		The Breakup: Your Fault, My Decision 493
		After the Breakup: Grief and Distress for Two 493
		Till Death Do Us Part 494
		Loneliness 494
		Concluding Comments	495
		Summary	496
		Overview	498

11

Liking and Loving

Initial Attraction	450
Physical Attractiveness	450
Effects of Physical Attractiveness 451
Who Cares About Physical Attractiveness? 452
Positive Interaction	452
Interaction Spells Liking . . . Most of the Time 453
Why Interaction Increases Liking 453
Positive or Negative Interaction? 455
Birds of a Feather: Liking Similar Others 455

12

Helping and Hurting 501

Helping, Hurting, and Human Nature 502

What Makes Behavior Aggressive or Altruistic? 502

Origins of Altruism and Aggression 503

The Image of the "Beast Within" 503 The Image of the "Best Within" 504 Is "Biological" the Same as Inevitable? 505 Is "Natural" Behavior "Right" Behavior? 505

Helping Others 506

Perceptions of the Person in Need 507

Noticing a Need 507 Deservingness 508 Similarity 508

Wanting to Help: Costs and Rewards of Helping 509

The Consequences of Helping 509 Emotional Rewards of Helping: Doing Good to Feel Better 510

Does True Altruism Exist? The Role of Empathy 513

Feeling One Ought to Help: Norms and Helping 516

Norms That Promote Helping 516 Norms That Inhibit Helping: Mind Your Own Business 517 Activating Norms 518 Deactivating Norms: Diffusion of Responsibility 519

Putting It All Together: Resolving Inner Conflicts 521

Emergency Helping: Superficial Processing 522 Long-Term Helping: Systematic Processing 522 Helping in the AIDS Epidemic 523

Help That Helps; Help That Hurts 524

Increasing Prosocial Behavior in Society 525

Aggression 527

What Triggers Aggression? 529

Instrumental Aggression: Counting Costs and Rewards 529 Emotional Aggression: Response to Provocation 530 Beyond Provocation: Emotional Aggression and Negative Emotion 532

Norms Promoting and Restraining Aggression 533

Norms of Aggression 534 Cultural Differences in Aggressive Norms 534 Models of Aggression 535 Aggressive Models in the Media 536 Norms Restraining Aggression 538 Activating and Deactivating Norms 540

Putting It All Together: When Desires and Obligations Conflict 540

Superficial Processing: Cues for Violence, Cues for Peace 540 Aggressive Cues in the Sports Arena 542 Systematic Processing: Thinking Things Through 542

Effects of Aggression 545

Effects on the Victim 545 Effects on the Aggressor 545

Reducing Aggression in Society 546

Interpret, and Interpret Again 546 Teach Norms Against Aggression 546 Promote Identification with Others 546 Minimize Cues for Aggression 547 Limit the Effects of Media Violence 547 Think Critically 548

Concluding Comments 548

Summary 550

Overview 552

13

Interaction and Interdependence 555

Social Facilitation: The Effects of Minimal Interdependence 557

Social Facilitation: Improvement and Impairment 557

Explaining Social Facilitation 558 Evaluation Apprehension 559 Distraction-Conflict 560 Choking Under Pressure: Social Facilitation in the Sports Arena 561

Crowding: The Presence of Lots of Others 562

Crowding and the Urban Environment 562

Performance in Face-to-Face Groups: Maximizing Interdependence 563

Stages of Group Development: Coming Together, Falling Apart 564

Getting the Job Done: Group Performance 567

Forms of Task Interdependence 567 Gains and Losses in Group Performance 568 Poor Coordination in the Workplace 571 Cures for Group Performance Losses 572

Leadership 576

What Do Leaders Do? 576 Leadership Effectiveness: Person or Situation? 577 Do Groups Choose Effective Leaders? 579

Group Communication 581
 Technology and Communication 583

Social Dilemmas: Interdependence That Pits Individuals Against the Group 585

Types of Social Dilemmas 586
 Replenishable Resource Dilemmas 586 Public Goods Dilemmas 586 Behavior in Social Dilemmas 587

Solving Social Dilemmas 589
 Using Task Interdependence to Solve Social Dilemmas 589 Social Interdependence and Social Dilemmas 590
 Creating Identification with Others to Solve Social Dilemmas 591

Concluding Comments 594

Summary 595

Overview 596

14

Conflict and Conflict Resolution 599

The Genesis of Intergroup Conflict 600

Sources of Intergroup Conflict: The Battle for Riches and Respect 601
 Realistic Conflict Theory: Getting the Goods 601
 Realistic Conflict in the Workplace 602 Social Competition: Getting a Little Respect 603 Relative Deprivation: When Is Enough Enough? 603

The Special Competitiveness of Groups 605
 Groups Often Value Respect over Riches 606 When Conflict Arises, Groups Close Ranks 607 People Expect Groups to Be Supercompetitive, So They React in Kind 607 Groups Offer Social Support for Competitiveness 608

Conflict Escalation: Going from Bad to Worse 608

Intensifying Conflict: Communication and Interaction That Make Things Worse 609
 Talking to the In-Group: Polarization and Commitment 609 Talking to the Out-Group: Back Off, or Else! 610
 Threat and Deterrence in International Affairs 611 Reciprocity and Conflict Escalation: Do unto Others, Only More So 612 Coalition Formation: Escalation as Others Choose Sides 613

Perceptions in Conflict: What Else Could You Expect From Them? 613
 Polarized Perceptions of In-Group and Out-Group 614 Biased Attributions for Behavior 615 Mirror-Image Thinking 616 Mirror-Image Thinking in International Conflicts 617 The Impact of Emotion and Arousal: More Heat, Less Light 618

“Final Solutions”: Eliminating the Out-Group 620

Resolving Intergroup Conflict 622

Communicating Peace: Conflict Resolution Through Negotiation 623
 Types of Solutions 623 Achieving Solutions: The Negotiation Process 625 Building Trust 626 Trust and the Norm of Reciprocity 626 GRIT and International Conflicts 627 Settling on Solutions 627 Cultural Perspectives on Negotiation 628 Mediation and Arbitration: Bringing in Third Parties 629

Intergroup Cooperation: Solving Disputes by Working Together 630
 Superordinate Goals 630 Superordinate Goals in the Classroom 632 Why Does Intergroup Cooperation Work? 632

Concluding Comments 635

Summary 636

Overview 638

Epilogue 643

Core Principles of Social Psychology 643

How the Principles Interrelate 645

An Invitation to Social Psychology 646

Glossary G-1

References R-1

Illustration Credits IC

Name Index NI-1

Subject Index SI-1