

INHALT

Preface .....	7
Physics and Politics. Research and Research Support in Twentieth Century Germany in International Perspective – An Introduction .....	9
Helmuth Trischler
German Physics and Its Support .....	19
Mark Walker
The Origins of German Biophysics in Medical Physics. Material Configurations Between Clinic, Physics and Biology (1900–1930) ....	37
Alexander von Schwerin
Allied Control of Physics and the Collegial Self-Denazification of the Physicists .....	61
Gerhard Rammer
Physics and the Ideology of Non-Ideology: Re-Constructing the Cultural Role of Science in West Germany .....	85
Richard Beyler
Beyond Reconstruction: CERN's Second-Generation Accelerator Program as an Indicator of Shifts in West German Science .....	107
Cathryn Carson
Scientists as Intellectuals: The Sociopolitical Role of French and West German Nuclear Physicists in the 1950s .....	131
Martin Strickmann
The German Research Foundation and the Early Days of Laser Research at West German Universities During the 1960s .....	161
Helmuth Albrecht

Science and the Periphery Under Stalin: Physics in Ukraine . . . . .	197
Paul Josephson, Yury Ranyuk, Ivan Tsekmistro, and Karl Hall
Physicists as Policymakers in Postwar Japan: The Rise of Joint-Use University Research Institutes . . . . .	227
Morris Low
Physics in China in the Context of the Cold War, 1949–1976 . . . . .	251
Zuoyue Wang
Abbreviations . . . . .	277
List of Contributors . . . . .	279
Index . . . . .	281