

Contents

Preface ix

BACKGROUND

Chapter 1. Paradigm Research in Personality and Social Psychology 3

Research in Personality and Social Psychology 4
Paradigm Research 14

Chapter 2. Similarity and Attraction: An Historical Perspective 23

Naturalistic Observations and Generalizations 24

Systematic Observations: Empirical Verification of the Similarity–Attraction Relationship 25

Extending the Similarity–Attraction Relationship 31

Experimental Approach to Similarity–Attraction: Candidates for a Research Paradigm 37

Selecting a Paradigm 43

THE BASE RELATIONSHIP AND ANALYTIC RESEARCH

Chapter 3. Initiating Paradigm Research on Attitude Similarity–Dissimilarity and Attraction 47

Underlying Assumptions 47

Devising a Methodology	50
Deviancy versus Dissimilarity	53
Proportion of Similar Attitudes	56
The Base Relationship	57

Chapter 4. Analytic Research on the Base Relationship 59

“Extraneous” Determinants of Attraction Responses	60
Differential Importance of Attitudinal Topics	62
Response Discrepancy on the Attitude Scale	75
Structural Similarity	80
Set Size	82
Temporal Variables	83
Sequential Effects of Attitudinal Stimuli	85

STIMULUS GENERALITY

Chapter 5. Stimulus Generality: I. Attitudes and Opinions 97

Varying the Stimulus Mode	98
Attitudes about Oneself	102
Personal Evaluations: Face-to-Face Interaction	105
Other Determinants of Similarity Effects	111

Chapter 6. Stimulus Generality: II. Effect of Overt Stimulus Characteristics 119

Prestige or Status of Stranger	120
Sex and Physical Attractiveness	127
Emotional Disturbance	134
Race	144

Chapter 7. Stimulus Generality: III. Nonattitudinal Similarity 164

Personality Similarity: Defense Mechanisms	165
Personality Similarity: Self-Descriptions	176
Personality Similarity: Masculinity-Femininity	181
Personality Similarity: Dominance-Submissiveness	184
Personality Similarity: Introversion-Extroversion	187
Ability Similarity: Intelligence	188
Economic Similarity-Dissimilarity	191
Behavioral Similarity	194

RESPONSE GENERALITY

Chapter 8. Response Generality: I. Subject Variables 201

Beyond the College Sophomore: Sampling Other Populations	201
Individual Differences in the Similarity-Attraction Relationship	211

Chapter 9. Response Generality: II. Other Responses	229
Alternative Verbal Measures of Attraction	231
Nonverbal Measures of Attraction	235
Other Evaluative Responses	245
Inferred Attraction and the Approval–Cue Hypothesis	251
Attraction As a Mediator of Other Interpersonal Responses	257
 THEORY-BUILDING
Chapter 10. A Reinforcement Model of Attraction	265
Reinforcement and Attraction	266
An Historical Note on the Reinforcement Approach to Attraction and Evaluation	273
Criticisms of the Reinforcement Model	276
Hypotheses Derived from the Reinforcement Model	278
 Chapter 11. Hypothesis Testing: I. Stimuli with Reinforcing Properties Can Determine Evaluative Responses	 282
Attraction toward a Person Who Administers Rewards and/or Punishments	283
Attraction toward a Person Who Is Simply Associated with Rewards and/or Punishments	290
Learning Principles and the Attraction Response	303
Conclusions	306
 Chapter 12. Hypothesis Testing: II. Stimuli That Can Determine Evaluative Responses Elicit Affective Responses and Have Reinforcing Properties	 307
Affective Responses Elicited by Stimuli That Determine Attraction	308
Attitude Statements as Positive and Negative Reinforcers	311
Other Determinants of Attraction as Positive and Negative Reinforcers	322
Attitude Statements as Reinforcers: Additional Implications	324
Other Persons as Reinforcing Stimuli	333
Conclusions	334
 Chapter 13. Hypothesis Testing: III. Stimuli That Elicit Affective Responses Have Reinforcing Properties and Can Determine Evaluative Responses	 335
Affective Responses and Conditioning	336
The Effectance Motive	337
Affect and Attraction	355
Contextual Manipulations of Affect	366
Conclusions	371

APPLICATIONS

Chapter 14. Toward Applications Based on the Attraction Paradigm	375
Maximizing Interpersonal Harmony	376
Determination of Other Evaluative Responses	391
Increasing Tolerance for Dissimilarity	403
Other Extensions of the Paradigm	409
Some Concluding Remarks	414
Appendix A. Fifty-Six Item Attitude Scale	416
Appendix B. Interpersonal Judgment Scale	426
Appendix C. Attitudinal Sentences	428
Appendix D. Computer Dating Interpersonal Judgment Scale Items	430
Appendix E. Homogeneous Behavior Questionnaire	432
Appendix F. Heterogeneous Behavior Questionnaire	435
Appendix G. Homogeneous Attitude Questionnaire	437
Appendix H. Children's Interpersonal Judgment Scale	439
Appendix I. Effectance Arousal Scale	441
References	443
Author Index	463
Subject Index	469