

CONTENTS

---

Preface	ix
Acknowledgments	xiii

---

1. The Need for Personal Control: An Introduction and Overview	1
2. Political Theory and Political Participation	13
3. Political Efficacy: Content and Measurement	31
4. The Need for Personal Control: Some Evidence	43
5. Personality and Political Socialization: The Origins and Development of Personal Control	59
6. A Need Theory of Political Efficacy and Political Participation	75
7. Toward a Reconceptualization of Political Efficacy	89
8. Research Design	101
9. Socialization and Personal Control: Some General Parameters	111
10. Socialization and Personal Control: Family Authority Dynamics	123
11. Socialization and Personal Control: Family Emotional Dynamics	135
12. The Self, Personal Control, and the Political System	153
13. Some Political Attitude Correlates of Personal Control	167
14. Personal Control and Political Participation	185
15. Personal Control and the Efficacy of Political Action	209
16. The Political Relevance of Personal Control	231

---

APPENDIXES

A. Student Questionnaire for the "Unstructured Period"	247
B. Student Questionnaire for the March on Washington	255

C. Parent Questionnaire	263
D. Scale and Index Items	271
<hr/>
Bibliography	277
Author Index	293
Subject Index	296
<hr/>	