

Contents

Introduction: The Foundational Role of Relationships in Human Development	ix
I: Attachment and the Construction of Close Relationships
1 Internal Working Models of Attachment Relationships as Related to Resilient Coping Inge Bretherton	3
2 Forms of Adult Romantic Attachment and Their Cognitive and Emotional Underpinnings Phillip R. Shaver and Catherine L. Clark	29
3 The Role of Psychological Defenses in the Representation and Regulation of Close Personal Relationships Across the Life Span Robbie Case	59
II: Cognitive Development and Relationships
4 The Social Construction of Cognitive Development Wolfgang Edelstein	91
5 Revisiting Piaget Revisited or the Vulnerability of Piaget's Infancy Theory in the 1990s Thérèse Gouin-Décarie and Marcelle Ricard	113
III: Construction of Vulnerabilities and Strengths in Relationships
6 Reconceptualizing Maturity: The Search for Deeper Meaning Gil G. Noam	135
	vii

7 Analyzing Development of Working Models of Close Relationships: Illustration with a Case of Vulnerability and Violence Kurt W. Fischer and Catherine Ayoub	173
8 The Personal Meaning of Risk Behavior: A Developmental Perspective on Friendship and Fighting in Early Adolescence Mira Z. Levitt and Robert L. Selman	201
IV: Dynamics and Themes of Relationship in Personality Development
9 The Centrality of Relationship in Human Development: A Puzzle, Some Evidence, and a Theory Carol Gilligan	237
10 Gender Differences in the Development of Relationships Joyce F. Benenson	263
11 Extending the Core Relationship Theme into Early Childhood Lester Luborsky, Ellen Luborsky, Louis Diguier, Kelly Schmidt, Dorothee Dengler, Pam Schaffler, Jeff Faude, Margaret Morris, Helen Buchsbaum, and Robert Emde	287
12 Relatedness and Self-Definition: A Dialectic Model of Personality Development Sidney J. Blatt and Rachel B. Blass	309
Author Index	339
Subject Index	349