

CONTENTS

Preface	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
Introduction	1
The Present Inquiry	3
The Scenario	4
Four Stimulus Programs	5
Assessing the Effects of the Program: General Idea	8
Experiment I The First Preview Screening	12
Recruiting the Audience	12
Presentation of Stimulus Program	14
Subjects	15
Assessment Procedure	15
Results	18
Experiment II The Frustration Study	23
Recruiting the Audience	24
Presentation of Stimulus Programs	24
How Frustration was Reduced	25
Results	25

Experiment III	The Effects of a Model: A Smashed Bank	29
Recruiting the Audience		29
Viewing Conditions		30
Subjects		30
The Model: A Smashed Display		30
Experiment IV	Imitation While Viewing	32
Subjects		32
Assessment		33
Presentation of the Stimulus Programs		33
Results		34
Conclusion		34
Experiment V	The Broadcast Study: New York	35
Recruiting the Audience		35
Subjects		36
Assessment Procedure		36
Experiment VI	The Broadcast Study: St. Louis	39
Subjects		39
The Gift-Distribution Center		40
Experiment VII	The Telephone Study	42
First Test		45
New York Test		46
Results		48
Experiment VIII	The Evening News Study	51
Recruiting the Audience		51
The News Program		53
Demographic Analysis		56
Race		57
Sex		60

Occupation	60
Age and Education	63
Persons Who Identified with Tom	63
Time Delay	63
Conclusions	65
References	70
Appendix I. Brief History of the Research	73
S. Milgram
Appendix II. The Original Research Proposal	77
S. Milgram
Introduction	77
Background and Theory	78
Further Requirements of a Study	78
The Stimulus Program	79
Effect of the Program on Violence in the Community	80
Demographic Analysis	81
Further Note on the Stimulus Program	82
Limitations of the Study	82
Study II	83
Study IIB	85
Magnitude of the Study	86
Investigator Status and Rights	86
Responsibility of CBS	87
Responsibility of the Investigator	87
Appendix III. Modeling Scripts	89
D. Brinkley
Antisocial Behavior, With Punishment	90
Antisocial Behavior, No Punishment	149
Prosocial Behavior	165
Index	181