

Contents

Preface ix

1. Conceptual Approaches to Stereotypes and Stereotyping 1
Richard D. Ashmore and Frances K. Del Boca
 - History of Stereotype Research and Theory 1
 - What is a Stereotype? 12
 - Orientations to the Study of Stereotypes 22
 - Conclusion 31

2. Sex Stereotypes and Implicit Personality Theory 37
Richard D. Ashmore
 - Definition and Function of Stereotypes 38
 - An Implicit Personality Theory Formulation of Sex Stereotypes 39
 - Implications of Present Formulation 64

| | | |
|----|---|-----|
| 3. | A Categorization Approach to Stereotyping | 83 |
| | Shelley E. Taylor | |
| | Categorization and the Organization of Person Information | 87 |
| | Relative Distinctiveness in the Social Environment: The Example of Solo Status | 89 |
| | The Solo Black in a Work Group: An Experimental Demonstration | 90 |
| | Perceptions of a Solo Man and a Solo Woman: Experimental Extensions | 92 |
| | Minority-Majority Status, Distinctiveness, and Stereotyping | 94 |
| | Stereotyping of Groups as a Function of Group Composition | 96 |
| | The Perceiver's Contribution to Stereotyping | 98 |
| | At What Level Does Stereotyping Occur? | 102 |
| | Conclusions and Further Directions | 107 |
| 4. | Illusory Correlation as a Basis for Stereotyping | 115 |
| | David L. Hamilton | |
| | Correlational Concepts: Bases and Biases | 117 |
| | Illusory Correlation and the Development of Stereotypic Beliefs | 124 |
| | Illusory Correlation and the Maintenance of Stereotypic Beliefs | 131 |
| | Explaining Illusory Correlations | 137 |
| | Summary and Conclusions | 141 |
| 5. | Memory Processes and Social Beliefs | 145 |
| | Myron Rotbbart | |
| | Systematic and Nonsystematic Hypothesis Testing | 146 |
| | A General Outline of the Role of Memory in Social Beliefs | 155 |
| | Expectancies, Positive Feedback, and Change in Beliefs | 175 |
| | Concluding Comment | 177 |
| 6. | On the Self-Perpetuating Nature of Social Stereotypes | 183 |
| | Mark Snyder | |
| | Reconstructing the Past: Cognitive Bolstering of Social Stereotypes | 184 |
| | Constructing the Future: Behavioral Confirmation of Social Stereotypes | 193 |
| | The Perpetuation of Social Stereotypes | 201 |
| | Conclusions | 208 |

| | |
|--|-----|
| 7. Perceiving Persons as a Group: Categorization and Intergroup Relations | 213 |
| David A. Wilder | |
| Categorization of Persons into a Group | 214 |
| Categorization into Ingroups and Outgroups | 224 |
| Reducing Intergroup Bias Through a Change in Categorical Structure | 233 |
| Conclusions, Considerations, and Caveats | 249 |
| 8. Cognitive and Dyadic Processes in Intergroup Contact | 259 |
| Terrence L. Rose | |
| The Limitations of Past Research | 261 |
| The Informativeness of Contact | 266 |
| The Quality of Interracial Interactions | 280 |
| Summary and Recommendations | 295 |
| 9. Extending the Stereotype Concept | 303 |
| Thomas F. Pettigrew | |
| Introduction | 303 |
| The Three Wings of Social Psychology | 305 |
| The Intellectual Context of These Cognitive Analyses | 310 |
| Extending the Concept of Stereotype | 312 |
| The Persistence and Modification of Stereotypes | 316 |
| Subgroup Stereotypes | 325 |
| Indicated Future Directions | 327 |
| 10. Stereotyping and Intergroup Behavior: Some Thoughts on the Cognitive Approach | 333 |
| David L. Hamilton | |
| The Cognitive Approach in Historical Perspective | 334 |
| Some Unresolved Issues for the Cognitive Approach | 336 |
| Toward Conceptual Integration | 350 |

Author Index 355

Subject Index 365