

Contents

Introduction	1
A Bias	3
Assumptions of the Johari Awareness Model	5
Qualities of the Johari Awareness Model	6
A Word about Experience-based Learning Groups	9
Quadrant 1, the Open Area	11
A Brief Summary of the Johari Awareness Model	13
Quadrant 1, Openness to the World	14
Enlarging Quadrant 1	19
Interaction between Two Persons Who Vary in Degree of Openness	22
Quadrant 2, the Blind Area	25
Quadrant 2, the Blind Area	27
The Matrix of Interaction between Two Persons	30
The Hidden Area and the Blind Spots	32
Interacting Alone	34
Forced Exposure—Psychological Rape	35
Q2 and Oedipus Rex	38
Perceiving and Knowing	40
How to Annoy Your Friends Clinically	41
Quadrant 3, the Hidden Area	43
Quadrant 3, the Hidden Area	45
Miscommunication	47
Privacy, Confidentialness, and Eavesdropping	53
Parallaction	55
Self-Disclosure	56
Quadrant 4, the Unknown Area	61
Quadrant 4, the Unknown Area	63
Potential for the Future, Residue of the Past	66
Awareness and Experience	67
The Participant-Observer	70
Self-Report	73

Group Interaction	77
Reasons for Coming Together	79
Interaction between Groups	81
Trapped in Games without End – 1	83
Trapped in Games without End – 2	84
The Floogle	88
Psychodrama	89
Research Applications	93
Interaction and Influence	97
Leadership: the Leader as a Shaman	99
The Leader as a Mystic	101
The Leader as a Naturalist	102
The Leader as a Priest	104
The Leader as a Magician	106
What Kind of a Leader Are You?	108
One View of a Typical Industrial Organization	111
Feedback	116
Varieties of Feedback	117
Heuristic	123
Interaction Values	125
Trust and Appropriate Self-Disclosure	127
The Explicit versus the Literal	134
When the Subjective Is the True	135
Trust and Tolerance	136
The Quandary	138
A Way of Looking at Love	140
On Feeling Understood	143
Personal Values and the Unknown	146
Appendix 1: Structural Intervention	149
Appendix 2: On Nonverbal Interaction	153
Appendix 3: The Language of Movement	160
References	169
Index	173