

Contents

Preface	vii
Acknowledgements	ix
1. Social Relationships	1
Problems with social relationships .. .. .	1
The psychological problems .. .. .	3
A background for social relationships .. .. .	6
Subjective interpretation of 'objective' phenomena .. .. .	11
2. A Personal Construction of Personal Construct Theory	17
A methodological tool .. .. .	21
Implications for interpersonal attraction .. .. .	23
3. Studying Interpersonal Attraction	27
Some basic problems .. .. .	29
Practical problems .. .. .	31
4. The Problems of Interpersonal Attraction	37
The acquaintance process .. .. .	39
The nature of the progressive development of friendship .. .. .	42
Theories of attraction .. .. .	44
First suggestions for a solution .. .. .	49
5. Preliminary Investigations: The Structural Approach	51
Method for the pilot study .. .. .	52
Analysis of the Reptests .. .. .	53
Discussion and conclusions .. .. .	54
6. A Comparison of the Content Approach with Other Methods	57
Method for Experiment A .. .. .	58
Analysis and results .. .. .	59
Discussion of Experiment A and Introduction to Experiment B	62
Discussion of Experiment B and Introduction to Experiment C	67
Discussion .. .. .	71
Conclusions .. .. .	74

7. A Longitudinal Study of Developing Friendship Patterns	75
Derivation of subjects for Experiments D and E; and overall methods .. .. .	76
Results and discussion of Experiment D .. .. .	80
Results of Experiment E and further analysis comparing Experiments D and E .. .. .	86
Discussion of the comparison of the two experiments ..	87
Discussion of Experiment E .. .. .	89
Conclusions .. .. .	90
8. Stages of Acquaintance	93
Discussion and further analysis of Experiment F .. ..	98
Conclusions .. .. .	99
9. Explorations of the Use of Early Construing	101
Discussion .. .. .	108
Conclusions .. .. .	109
10. An Examination of Early Filtering and Evaluation	111
Method of Experiment H .. .. .	113
Analysis and results .. .. .	116
Discussion of Experiment H .. .. .	120
Conclusions .. .. .	124
11. The Filtering Theory Reconsidered and Developed	125
Some introductory caveats .. .. .	125
General problems in a theoretical development .. ..	129
Some methodological issues .. .. .	134
Personal interpretation in a hierarchy of construct classes ..	136
Implications of the filtering hypothesis .. .. .	142
12. Social Relationships Revisited	145
Examples of Some Constructs and Construct Classification .. ..	154
Appendix A: Role Title Lists and Standard Instructions .. ..	156
Appendix B: Summary of States of Analysis and Treatment of Repests .. .. .	158
References	159
Author Index	167
Subject Index	169