

CONTENTS

Contents cross-referenced	x
Acknowledgements	xii
A Introduction: key basic concepts	1
1 Phonetics and phonology	2
2 Morphology and lexicology	6
3 Semantics and pragmatics	10
4 Grammatical parts	14
5 Text and discourse	19
6 Early language acquisition	23
7 Psycholinguistics	27
8 History of English	30
9 Sociolinguistics	35
10 World Englishes	39
11 Stylistics	43
12 Methodological paradigms	48
13 Language theories	52
B Development: aspects of English	57
1 Consonants and vowels	58
2 Lexical semantics	64
3 Pragmatic principles	67
4 Syntax	73
5 Conversation	79
6 Literacy	84
7 Schemas	88
8 Standardisation	91
9 Language attitudes	95
10 Codification	99
11 Stylistic analysis	103
12 Techniques and ethics	107
13 Language and thought	111
C Exploration: investigating English language	117
1 Performing accents	118
2 Word plays	125
3 Doing politeness	129
4 Syntactic effects	135

5	Texts in action	139
6	Learning to read	144
7	Exploring the mind	150
8	Corrections	155
9	Identify yourself	161
10	Influencing language	165
11	Exploring literature	171
12	Collecting data	178
13	Theory into practice	186
D Extension: linguistic readings		191
1	Glottalisation in Cardiff (Collins and Mees)	192
2	The search for units of meaning (Sinclair)	200
3	The speech acts of the in-group (Cutting)	206
4	Prefabricated expressions in spoken language (Cheshire)	214
5	Advertising discourse (Cook)	220
6	Socialisation and grammatical development (Ochs and Schieffelin)	226
7	Promoting perception (Field)	232
8	Lexical change (Smith)	239
9	Social relationships and social practices (Milroy and Gordon)	245
10	The development of World Englishes (Kirkpatrick)	251
11	Transitivity as point of view (Simpson)	257
12	Qualitative, quantitative, and mixed methods research (Dörnyei)	265
13	Researching 'real' language (Carter and Sealey)	271
Further reading		278
References		282
Glossarial index		297