

CONTENTS

Preface vii

The Author xiii

PART 1

THE WHY AND WHAT OF ETHNOGRAPHY 1

1 WHAT IS ETHNOGRAPHY? 3

Ethnography: The Engaged, Firsthand Study of Society and Culture in Action 4

A Brief History 4

How Ethnography Has Changed: Doing Contemporary Ethnography 8

Ethnography as Firsthand Research 12

Ethnographer as Research Instrument 13

Collaboration as Research Model: Ethnographer as Student 15

2 CHOOSING AN ETHNOGRAPHIC TOPIC 19

Where to Look for Possible Topics 22

Ethnographic Topics: Studying Places, People, or Events 23

The Benefits of a Relatively Specific Focus 23

Thinking About the Nonobvious as Discoverable 26

Cultural Knowledge and Behavior in Action as Research Objects 28

Practical Concerns 29

Considering Ethics from the Start: Your Obligations to Potential Informants 32

Topics You Might Want to Avoid 33

3 RESEARCH DESIGN 37

Turning an Idea or Topic into a Research Question 38

Linking Questions to Methods 40

Key Methods to Consider for the Ethnographic Project	41
What Is Practical or Feasible? Time, Availability, and Ethics	47
4 WRITING A PROPOSAL	51
Identifying and Reviewing Appropriate Literature	52
Statement of the Problem	55
A Clear Research Plan	56
Identifying Your Project's Larger Relevance	58
Human Subjects Review and Approval	59

PART 2

ETHNOGRAPHY IN THE FIELD:

COLLECTING DATA 65

5 A GUIDE TO COLLECTING DATA AND TAKING NOTES	67
The Fleeting Nature of Ethnographic Data	69
“Should I Write it Down Immediately?”	69
The Importance of Detail in the Ethnographic Record	71
Writing Notes Versus Using Recorders	72
The Prospects of Transcription	74
What Is Important and What Is Superfluous:
“ What Do I Need to Write Down? ”	76
The Ethics of Collecting Information	78

6 PARTICIPANT-OBSERVATION	83
The Apparent Paradox: Participation and Observation	84
Balancing Participation and Observation	87
The Importance of Time	88
Depending on Informants as Teachers and Guides	89
Getting Started	92
Regular Versus Extraordinary Behavior and Conversations	94

7 INTERVIEWS	99
Starting with Informal Interviews and Conversations	101
Informal Conversation as an Avenue to “Real” Culture	104
A Good Interviewer Is a Good Listener	105

How to Record Interview Data	105
Using an Interview Schedule	107
How to Start an Interview	108
Good Versus Bad Interview Questions	109
When to Conduct Formal Interviews	113
8 ANALYZING ALONG THE WAY	115
Identifying Key Themes and Questions: Paying Attention to Your Data	116
How to Organize Your Notes	117
What Have You Learned?	118
What Do You Still Need to Do?	119
Has the Research Question Changed?	120
Tweaking the Research Design	121
Getting Feedback from Your Informants	122
Writing at the Midway Point	123
9 ETHNOGRAPHIC MAPS	127
Space and Movement as Key Components of Culture	131
The Importance of Space, Shape, and Distance	131
Large- and Small-Scale Geographic Maps	132
Mapping Interior Spaces	135
Cognitive or Conceptual Maps	138
Representing Movement and Behavior on a Map	141
10 TABLES AND CHARTS	143
Ethnographic Tables	144
Interpersonal Relationships as a Manifestation of Culture	144
Kinship as an Organizing Principle	146
Other Organizational Charts	149
11 ARCHIVES AND SECONDARY DATA	157
Cultural Artifacts as Sources of Information	158
Making Ethnographic Use of Archives	161
Contemporary Cultural Artifacts	164
Evaluating and Analyzing Cultural Artifacts	166
Analytical Sources Versus Popular or Primary Sources	167

PART 3

ANALYZING AND WRITING	171
12 SORTING AND CODING DATA	173
Writing from Your Research Data	174
Identifying Key Themes and Questions	175
Identifying Important Research Moments and Experiences	176
Coding and Sorting the Ethnographic Record	178
Dealing with Apparent Contradictions: The Messiness of Ethnographic Data	181
13 ANSWERING QUESTIONS AND BUILDING MODELS	183
Fitting the Pieces Together	184
Moving from Data to Theory: The Inductive Process	190
Remembering the Big Picture and the Big Questions	190
Infusing Theory in Ethnography	192
14 CHOOSING THE APPROPRIATE PRESENTATION STYLE	195
Common Ethnographic Conventions	196
The Importance of Ethnographic Detail	202
Matching Style to Audience, Subject, and Analysis	204
A Formal to Informal Continuum of Style	206
15 PUTTING THE WHOLE ETHNOGRAPHY TOGETHER	211
The Hourglass Shape as a Model	212
Alternative Models for Organizing an Ethnography	213
Incorporating Relevant Literature	214
Incorporating Maps, Charts, and Photographs	215
Demonstrating the Project's Relevance	216
Evaluating and Revising Ethnography	217
Sharing the Ethnography	218
Incorporating Responses and Critiques	220
GLOSSARY	223
REFERENCES	231
INDEX	235