

Table of contents

Acknowledgements	IX
List of contributors	XI
Preface	XIII
SECTION I. Theoretical groundings
Pragmatics and speech act performance Alicia Martínez-Flor and Esther Usó-Juan	3
SECTION II. Empirical foundations
The effect of individual-level variables on speech act performance Lisa M. Kurisack	23
Data collection methods in speech act performance: DCTS, role plays, and verbal reports J. César Félix-Brasdefer	41
Conversation analysis and speech act performance Marta González-Lloret	57
Culture and its effect on speech act performance Ardith J. Meier	75
Study abroad and its effect on speech act performance Gila A. Schauer	91
Speech act performance in workplace settings Lynda Yates	109
The effect of pragmatic instruction on speech act performance Satomi Takahashi	127
SECTION III. Methodological innovations
Apologies: Raising learners' cross-cultural awareness Sachiko Kondo	145

Complaints: How to gripe and establish rapport	163
Diana Boxer
Compliments and responses to compliments: Learning communication in context	179
Noriko Ishihara
Disagreement: How to disagree agreeably	199
Lewis H. Malamed
Refusals: How to develop appropriate refusal strategies	217
Zohreh R. Eslami
Requests: A sociopragmatic approach	237
Esther Usó-Juan
Suggestions: How social norms affect pragmatic behaviour	257
Alicia Martínez-Flor
Index	275