

Table of Contents

Introduction
Cultural Memory, Artistic Transgression, and the End of the Cold War	9
1. Is the Holocaust an American Memory?	29
2. Literature
Holocaust Fiction in the 1990s: Laughter, Memory, Place	65
3. Visual Arts
Transgression as Commemoration: Art's Ritualized Encounter with the "Limits of Representation"	99
4. Film
If Life Had Only Been Beautiful: Radu Mihaileanu's Train of Life and the Embarrassments of "Holocaust Comedies"	131
5. Architecture
Daniel Libeskind's World Trade Center Project: Architecture, (Inter)nationalism, and the Politics of Moral Consensus	163
Bibliography	183
List of Illustrations	205