

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction	i
PART ONE: A Pictorial Term Gone Astray?
1.1 Point of Origin – Shifting Ground	31
1.2 The Original Matrix: Roger de Piles' Theories on Colouring	35
1.3 Aerial Perspective Reclaimed – Couleur Locale after de Piles	41
1.4 First Literary Use of the Term – The Distance Transversed	51
1.5 Conditions of Acceptance	61
PART TWO: The Rise and Fall of Couleur Locale
2.1 Local Colour Revisited	75
2.2 Enlisting Local Colour – The Romanticists versus the Classicists	81
2.3 The Topos of Two Local Colours – The Romanticists versus the Romanticists	99
2.4 Crossing Over	123
2.5 A Pictorial Interlude	143
2.6 The Demise of Couleur Locale	157
PART THREE: The Transatlantic Journey
3.1 Local Color and Regionalism – Probing the Link	173
3.2 Local Color and Americanism	185
3.3 From Indigenism to Exoticism – Contemporary Uses and Reuses of Local Color	205

Conclusion	219
Appendix	229
Bibliography	233
Index	253