

	Introduction: maps of meaning	1
	An introduction to cultural studies	2
	Cultural politics and the politics of culture	4
	Notes	8
1	The heritage of cultural geography	9
	The 'Berkeley School' and its legacy	10
	The cultural landscape	13
	Culture history and human agency	14
	Cultural anthropology: Boas, Lowie, and Kroeber	16
	The super-organic approach to culture	17
	Cultural geography and the new humanism	20
	Conclusion	22
	Notes	23
2	Problems and alternatives	25
	The study of culture and 19th-century anthropology	26
	The problem of culturalism	27
	Culturalism and the city	29
	Culturalism and poverty	30
	Cultural materialism	33
	Culture and society	36
	A materialist cultural geography?	43
	Conclusion	45
	Notes	45

3	Culture and ideology	47
	The concept of ideology	48
	Hegemony and power	52
	Culture and capital in urban change	55
	Rituals of resistance	59
	Folk devils and moral panics	65
	Territorial struggles	68
	Cheerleaders and ombudsmen?	73
	Notes	75
4	Popular culture and the politics of class	76
	The meaning of 'popular culture'	76
	Popular culture in pre-industrial Britain	79
	Fun without vulgarity: the battle of the music halls	82
	Policing the public	89
	Conclusion	100
	Notes	102
5	Gender and sexuality	104
	Feminist theory and cultural geography	105
	The female frontier in America	109
	Women's work?	111
	The landscape of female prostitution	115
	The spatial basis of gay identity	120
	Gay politics and the restructuring of San Francisco	123
	Conclusion	128
	Notes	130
6	Languages of racism	132
	The social construction of 'race'	132
	The roots of British racism	134
	Representing 'race'	140
	Reporting the riots	145
	The myth of 'Asian' ethnicity	146
	Imagining the Orient	149
	Conclusion	151
	Notes	153
7	The politics of language	155
	Cultural geography and linguistic theory	155
	The problematic character of language	157

Linguistic variation: dialects, pidgins, and creoles	158
Linguistic communities	161
The discourse of 'discovery'	167
Conclusion	169
Notes	170
8 An agenda for cultural geography	171
Culture and interpretation	172
Sheep raids and revolutions: culture, politics, and society	174
Poetics and politics: the dilemmas of post-modernism	175
Cultures and landscapes	177
Culture . . .	180
. . . and geography	181
Notes	186
Bibliography	187
Index	207