

Preface	vii
Acknowledgements	viii
List of figures	ix
Foreword: An Historical Approach to Urban Geography	xiii

Part I Urbanism: its origins and diffusion 1

1 Urban Origins: The General Case 1

1 Introduction: Geography and urban origins	1
2 The definition of a city	1
3 Urban origins: a review of theories	3
4 A summary of theories of urban origins	8
5 Areas of nuclear urbanism	9
6 The layout of the first cities	10
7 Conclusion	16
Further reading	17

2 The Diffusion of Urbanism 18

1 Introduction: The meaning of diffusion	18
2 The Greek polis and the Mediterranean	18
3 The medieval marchlands of Europe	34
4 The city crosses the Atlantic: The urbanization of North America	50
5 Conclusion	61
Further reading	62

3 The Origin of the Towns of England 64

1 Introduction	64
2 Pre-Roman urbanization	65
3 Roman towns in England	68
4 Saxon towns and Norman boroughs	74
Further reading	81

Part II Urbanization: the city system 82

4 Size, Status and Region: The Micro Scale, the Static Condition 82

1 Introduction	82
2 The population of towns	82
3 The functional status of a town	85
4 The urban field or the complementary region	89
5 Conclusion	95
Further reading	95

5 The Evolution of the City system 96

1 Introduction	96
2 Technical notes	96
3 City system structure and evolution	97
4 The state of the city system: Controls and influences	105
5 Conclusion	112
Further reading	113

Part III The formation of town plan 114

6 In Whose Image is the City Made? The Physical Form of Urbanism 114

1 Introduction	114
2 Renaissance and baroque towns in Europe: The city as an aristocratic estate	114
3 The grid plan and urban America: The democratic city	119
4 The towns of colonial India: The city of two cultures	122
5 The city as social conscience: The planned industrial town	125
6 Conclusion	129
Further reading	129

7 Suburbs, Estates and Fringe Belts: The Structure of Urban Extension 130

1 Introduction	130
2 Suburb	130
3 Fringe belts	146
4 Conclusion	148
Further reading	148

Part IV The internal structure of the city 150

8 The Internal Structure of the City: The Central Area 150

1 Introduction	150
2 The evolution of retailing and commerce and the city centre	151
3 An intermediate stage: the market hall	157
4 The mid-nineteenth century: an empirical example	159
5 The development of the central business district	162

6	The railways and the central area	168
7	The central area and vertical extension	168
8	Conclusion	169
	Further reading	170
9	The Social Areas of the City: 1 The Pre-Industrial City	171
	1 Introduction	171
	2 Social status and intra-city locations	171
	3 Occupations and intra-city locations	175
	4 Ethnicity in the pre-industrial city	180
	5 Familism in the pre-industrial city	181
	6 Conclusion	182
	Further reading	183
10	The Social Areas of the City: 2 The Industrial City	184
	1 Introduction	184
	2 The causes of nineteenth-century intra-urban transformation	184
	3 The nature of segregation	189
	4 Social areas in nineteenth-century cities	190
	5 Ethnicity and the formation of ghettos	199
	6 Conclusion	201
	Further reading	203
11	Afterword	205
	References	208
	Index	217