

Contents

---

List of contributors	vii
Preface	ix

PART I INTRODUCTION

1. Economic and policy implications of population aging Robert Clark, Andrew Mason and Naohiro Ogawa	3
--	---

PART II POPULATION AGING AND LABOR MARKETS

2. Population aging, changing retirement policies and lifetime earnings profiles in Japan Robert Clark, Naohiro Ogawa and Rikiya Matsukura	17
3. Firm productivity, work-force age and educational structure in Austrian industries in 2001 Alexia Prskawetz, Bernhard Mahlberg and Vegard Skirbekk	38
4. The effect of subjective survival probabilities on retirement and wealth in the United States David E. Bloom, David Canning, Michael Moore and Younghwan Song	67

PART III SAVING AND WEALTH

5. Modeling the effects of population aging on consumption in the presence of intergenerational transfers Heinrich Hock and David N. Weil	101
6. Transfers, capital and consumption over the demographic transition Andrew Mason and Ronald Lee	128
7. Effects of age structure on investment, saving and trade Thomas Lindh and Bo Malmberg	163
8. Population aging and health care spending in Japan: public- and private-sector responses Naohiro Ogawa, Andrew Mason, Maliki, Rikiya Matsukura and Kazuro Nemoto	192

PART IV POLICY

9. Procreation, migration and tradable quotas David de la Croix and Axel Gosseries	227
10. Australia's Future Fund: a social welfare analysis Ross Guest	250
11. Is Asia prepared for an aging population? Peter S. Heller	270
Index	295