

1. Urban Consumer Behaviour	18
I.D. Shepherd and C.J. Thomas
Normative Spatial Models	20
Central Place Theory	20
Spatial Interaction Theory	23
The Behavioural Approaches	29
The Theoretical Behavioural Approach	29
The Empirical Behavioural Approach	33
The Cognitive Behavioural Approach	61
The Marketing Approach to the Study of Consumer Behaviour	74
Conclusions	81
References	86
2. The Study of Retail Location	95
P.T. Kivell and G. Shaw
Problems of Classification and Organisation	96
The Study of Shopping Centre Location	99
Economic Theory	99
Land Value Theory	103
Central Place Theory	107
Spatial Interaction Models	113
Ecological Analogies	118
Store Location Research and the Study of Shop Patterns	120
A Marketing Geography Approach	120
Store Location Studies in Britain	123
Spatial Statistics and the Study of Shop Patterns	126

Changes in Retail Location	129
Studies of Retail Location Change	129
Conceptual Views of Retail Location Change	133
Retail Decentralisation	136
The Changing Retail Component of the Central Business District	139
Retail Location Change and the British Planning System	143
Conclusions	145
References	148
3. Retail Organisation	156
R.L. Davies and D.A. Kirby
The Distribution System	157
The System of Retailing	157
Wholesale-Retail Relations	158
The Techniques of Retailing	160
The Evolution of Retailing	162
Modern Trends in Retailing	165
Sources of Information	165
The Development of New Stores	167
International Comparisons	168
The Relative Health of Retailing	169
The Impact of Change	171
The Effects of Large Superstores and Hypermarkets	171
Problems and Prospects for Small Shops	173
Shopping Centre Developments	175
Typologies and Classifications	176
The Development Process	177
The Impact of New Schemes	178
The Future of the Central Area	180
Store Assessment Research	181
Needs in Future Research	182
References	183

4. Retail Activity and Public Policy	193
J.A. Dawson
Location Policies	196
The Lack of Effective Policies	196
A Model of Location Policy Formulation	199
Preliminary Recognition and Definition of Problems	199
Definition of the Planning Task	201
Data Collection, Analysis and Forecasting	201
Determination of Constraints and Objectives	203
Formulation of Operational Criteria for Design	207
Plan Design	210
Testing of Alternative Plans	210
Plan Evaluation	211
Decision-Making	211
Plan Implementation	211
Retail Price Policies	213
Business Structure Policies	215
The Concept of Efficiency	216
Pro-competitive Policies	216
Policies to Encourage Retail Growth	218
The Control of Market Power	220
Control of the Birth and Death of Firms	223
Consumer Protection Policies	225
Indirect Influences of Social and Economic Policies	227
References	229
5. Conclusions	236
J.A. Dawson
A Possible Research Framework	238
References	241