Contents

1 Introducing the Resourceful Practitioner 1
1.1 What This Book Is About 1
1.2 Being a Professional 2
1.3 What Are Practices? 5
1.4 Mediation and Knowledge in Practices 7
1.5 Professional Identity 10
1.6 Relational Expertise 13
1.7 The Evidence Base 16
References 18

2 Expertise: The Relational Turn 21
2.1 Expertise in Task Accomplishment 21
2.2 Psychological Accounts of Expertise and Environment 21
2.3 Starting with the Cultural 24
2.4 Distributed Expertise 26
2.5 Networking Without Knowledge 32
2.6 Collective Competence and Collaborative Intentions 34
2.7 Expertise as Purposeful Engagement in Practices 36
References 37

3 Knowledge Work at Practice Boundaries 41
3.1 Boundaries: Where Practices Intersect 41
3.2 Boundary Work 43
3.3 What Happens in the New Boundary Spaces 45
3.4 Alternative Envisioning at the Boundaries 48
3.5 Constructing Sites for Sustained Boundary Work 50
3.6 Knowledge Talk at the Boundaries 53
References 58

4 Relational Agency: Working with Other Practitioners 61
4.1 Relational Agency 61
4.2 Agency and Mutuality 62
4.3 Relational Agency and Cultural Historical Activity Theory 64
4.4 Motives and Relational Agency 68

4.5 Relational Agency and Demands on Practitioners 69
4.6 Systemic Responses to the Demands of Relational Agency 71
4.7 Relational Agency in Practice 73
References 77

5 Working Relationally with Clients 81
5.1 Personal Responsibility 81
5.2 Participation 83
5.3 Joint Work as Co-configuration 85
5.4 Externalisation Co-configuration and Relational Agency 89
5.5 Working with the Expertise of Those Who Use Services 95
References 96

6 Being a Professional 99
6.1 Working in Relation 99
6.2 Knowledge and Commitment in Professional Work 100
6.3 Expert Knowledge and Relational Agency 104
6.4 Knowledge in Practices 109
References 113

7 Working Upstream 117
7.1 Systemic Learning from Operational Practices 117
7.2 Distinctly Different Practices in Organisational Hierarchies 119
7.3 Differences in Engagement with Knowledge Between Hierarchical Practices 122
7.4 Differences in Temporalities 124
7.5 Representations that Work Across Boundaries 125
7.6 Upstream Learning and Resistance to Change in Organisations . . 126
7.7 Mediation and Relevance 129
7.8 Knowledge Flows from Research to Policy 132
References 135

8 Researching the Relational in Practices 137
8.1 Finding the Object of Enquiry 137
8.2 Background and Foreground in Research Design 142
8.3 Discursive Approaches to Researching Relational Aspects of Professional Practices 144
8.4 Narratives and Personal Trajectories 146
8.5 Interventionist Research 150
8.6 The Challenges of Researching the Relational Turn 152
References 153

Appendix A: Activity Theory 157
A.1 What Is Activity Theory? 157
A.2 Engeström and Activity Theory 158
A.3 Developmental Work Research 160
A.4 Inside the DWR Sessions 162

A.5 Analysing the Data from the DWR Sessions 163
References 163

An Analytic Protocol for the Building of Common Knowledge: The D-Analysis 165
Reference 166

Index 167