

CONTENTS

	Acknowledgments	x
1	No Place Like Here: Utopian Imagination as a Critical Space	1
	Utopia — anti-utopia — dystopia: mapping the terrain	1
	The utopia of 'life reform'	3
	The changing meaning of 'utopia'	5
	More than a genre	7
	The modernity of utopia: rationalism and secularism	12
	The problem of means and ends	15
	Limits of a rational utopia: sex and desire as the other of reason	17
	Utopia as social desire	18
	Stasis in utopia	19
	'Novum' or novelty? The uses of utopian desire	22
2	From Utopian Crisis to Dystopian Response	29
	Critique of modernity, critique of utopia	29
	The dystopian position: the case of Brave New World	34
	The dystopian method: finding the flaws in utopia	38
	Totalitarianism and utopia: the dream of decidability	46
	Aporia of freedom in utopia and dystopia	48
3	Re-Arranging Gender: Utopian Constructions of Sexual Difference	54
	The 'truth' of gender: competing theories since 1900	58
	Knowing the other: taxonomy as a utopian enterprise	63
	Visions of difference: the condition of women in utopian fiction	65
	The feminization of utopian space	67
4	Matriarchy and Maternalism: Nurture and Nature as Social Critique	75
	Setting and narrative in Hauptmann's fantasy	76
	Two maternalist utopias: Herland and The Island of the Great Mother	78
	Return to a higher nature: eugenic discourse	82
	Gendered polarities: stasis and dynamism	84
	Nature and culture in Robinsonade and utopia	87
	The utopia of complementarity	92
	Complementarity made flesh: matrimony as utopia	94
5	Utopias of the Dionysian	102
	The modern meaning of Dionysus	103
	Dionysus in literature: the narration of frenzy	108
	Dionysus meets utopia: frenzy in fantasy worlds	111
	Wedekind's primitivist utopia	113
	Lulu and her sisters: the prostitute as utopian figure	117

6	From Pedagogical Province to Primitivist Utopia	128
	On the physical education of young girls: Wedekind's Mine-Haha	128
	The pedagogical enclave	129
	Mine-Haha as corporeal utopia	132
	Framing the narrative: memoir or fantasy?	136
	Sexual innocence and shamelessness	138
	Wedekind's fantasy world: Eden and The Great Love	140
	Eden/The Great Love : alternative as critique	141
	Reproductive control: eugenics in Wedekind and Bellamy	144
	Wedekind's interpretative challenge	147
7	Beyond the Blueprint: Utopias of Postmodernity	154
	Literature as utopia	154
	Postmodern utopianism	157
	Bloch's anticipation of postmodern utopianism	160
	Intransitive utopianism	162
	Safe spaces: the elimination of contingency	165
	A sort of homecoming: Bloch's transformation of the 'Heimat' metaphor	166
	Conclusion: engendering utopia	167
	Bibliography	172
	Index	185