

CONTENTS

Alternative Contents	ix
Preface and Acknowledgements	xi
Abbreviations of Works Cited	xiii
Julian Wolfreys: Introduction	1
1 R. Brandon Kershner: Mikhail Bakhtin and Bakhtinian criticism	19
Notes towards a reading of A Portrait of the Artist As a Young Man	28
Questions for further consideration	30
Annotated bibliography	31
Supplementary bibliography	31
2 K. M. Newton: Roland Barthes and structuralist criticism	33
Notes towards a reading of Middlemarch	42
Questions for further consideration	44
Annotated bibliography	44
Supplementary bibliography	45
3 Ruth Robbins: Will the real feminist theory please stand up?	47
Notes towards readings of Middlemarch and Mrs Dalloway	61
Questions for further consideration	63
Annotated bibliography	64
Supplementary bibliography	65
4 Moyra Haslett: The politics of literature: marxist literary theories	67
Notes towards a reading of Mrs Dalloway	77
Questions for further consideration	80
Annotated bibliography	81
Supplementary bibliography	82
5 Martin McQuillan: There is no such thing as reader-response theory	84
Notes towards a reading of Mrs Dalloway	93
Questions for further consideration	95
Annotated bibliography	96
Supplementary bibliography	96

CONTENTS

6	Jill Barker: The self, the other and the text: psychoanalytic criticism	98
	Notes towards a reading of The Tempest	109
	Questions for further consideration	113
	Annotated bibliography	113
	Supplementary bibliography	114
7	Julian Wolfreys: Deconstruction, what remains unread	117
	Notes towards a reading of In Memoriam A.H.H.	144
	Questions for further consideration	148
	Annotated bibliography	148
	Supplementary bibliography	149
8	Mark Currie: Criticism and creativity: poststructuralist theories	152
	Notes towards a reading of Mrs Dalloway	164
	Questions for further consideration	166
	Annotated bibliography	167
	Supplementary bibliography	167
9	John Brannigan: History, power and politics
	in the literary artifact: new historicism	169
	Notes towards readings of The Tempest and In Memoriam A.H.H.	179
	Questions for further consideration	182
	Annotated bibliography	182
	Supplementary bibliography	183
10	John Brannigan: Conflict and contradiction: cultural materialism	185
	Notes towards readings of The Tempest and In Memoriam A.H.H.	193
	Questions for further consideration	197
	Annotated bibliography	197
	Supplementary bibliography	198
11	Gail Ching-Liang Low and Julian Wolfreys: Postcolonialism
	and the difficulty of difference	200
	Notes towards readings of The Tempest and
	The Swimming-Pool Library	211
	Questions for further consideration	219
	Annotated bibliography	219
	Supplementary bibliography	220
12	Jane Goldman and Julian Wolfreys: Works on the Wild(e) side – performing, transgressing, queering: gay studies/queer theories	224
	Notes towards a reading of The Swimming-Pool Library	237
	Questions for further consideration	239
	Annotated bibliography	240
	Supplementary bibliography	241

13 Kenneth Womack : Theorizing culture, reading ourselves: cultural studies	243
Notes towards readings of The Swimming-Pool Library and Prospero's Books	255
Questions for further consideration	257
Annotated bibliography	257
Supplementary bibliography	258
14 Arkady Plotnitsky : Postmodernism and postmodernity: literature, criticism, philosophy, culture	261
Notes towards a reading of The Tempest	286
Questions for further consideration	288
Annotated bibliography	289
Supplementary bibliography	290
 Glossary	 293
Notes on Contributors	311
Index of proper names	314