

CONTENTS

	page
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS	i
CONTENTS	iii
FIGURES	x
TABLES	xi
PHOTOGRAPHS	xiv
SUMMARY	xv
ZUSAMMENFASSUNG	xix
RESUME	xxii
1. FOREWORD	1
2. COMPARATIVE URBAN ANALYSIS: THEORETICAL CONSIDERATIONS OF RECENT METROPOLITAN DEVELOPMENT	4
2.1 Urban Centrality, Urban Evolution	6
2.2 Culture, Human Agency, and Urban Order	9
2.3 Planning, Politics, and Ideology	13
2.4 Constructing a Comparative Framework	15
3. PLANNING AND LAND-USE IDEOLOGY IN THE UNITED STATES, CANADA, AND GERMANY	20
3.1 The Role of Political Ideologies	22
3.2 The United States: A Division of Power	24

3.2.1	The Persistence of Local Autonomy.....	25
3.2.2	The Limits of Intervention: Attitudes, Ideologies, and the Role of the State	27
3.2.3	Early Responses to Urban Problems.....	29
3.2.3.1	Zoning: Avoidance of Nuisance, Protection of Property Values.....	31
3.2.3.2	The Frustration of a Comprehensive Urban Policy	32
3.2.4	A New Role for Government: the New Deal.....	34
3.3	Canada: Parliamentary Federalism and Provincial Planning Intervention.....	37
3.3.1	Canada: Municipal Affairs and the Provinces.....	38
3.3.2	Traditions of Interventionism	40
3.3.3	Roots of Canadian Planning	42
3.3.3.1	Social Progress and Functionalism: a Canadian Outlook.....	44
3.3.3.2	Bureaucratic Control and Provincial Paternalism	45
3.3.4	Housing and Urban Policy Development in Canada.....	46
3.4	Federalism, Intervention, and Local Autonomy in Germany	47
3.4.1	Local Autonomy and Municipal Affairs in West Germany	50
3.4.2	Interventionism: Social Market Ideology and the State.....	53

3.4.2.1	The Role of Land Ownership Rights	55
3.4.2.2	German Traditions of Planning Intervention.....	56
3.4.3	Metropolitan Planning until 1945	58
3.4.4	Developments after 1945.....	60
4.0	URBAN POLICY AND THE NATURE OF URBAN CHANGE IN THE POSTWAR PERIOD.....	61
4.1	Urban Policy - Administrative Control over Urban Space.....	65
4.1.1	Revitalisation and the Urban Fringe.....	66
4.1.2	The Search for a Metropolitan Perspective.....	69
4.1.3	The Maintenance of Urban Centrality.....	70
5.	METROPOLITAN DEVELOPMENT IN THE UNITED STATES: CALIFORNIA'S URBAN GROWTH PHENOMENON.....	71
5.1	Spatial Shifts after 1940	71
5.1.1	Economic Transformation: the "Organisational Revolution".....	73
5.2	A National Urban Agenda: the New Deal and its Legacy	74
5.3	The Search for a Regional Focus.....	77
5.3.1	Intergovernmental Volunteerism: an American Response?.....	79
5.3.2	Federal Retrenchment, State Inactivity: A Power Vacuum.....	81
5.4	The San Francisco Bay Area: Regionalism in a Nine County Setting.....	83

5.4.1	Suburbanisation and Regional Fragmentation.....	83
5.4.2	The Evolution of Regional Government in the San Francisco Bay Area	87
5.4.3	Suburban Growth Policies in Santa Clara County.....	90
5.4.3.1	The Regional Jobs/Housing Imbalance.....	91
5.4.4	Contra Costa County.....	92
5.4.4.1	Municipal Development Strategies: "Exclusive Growth".....	93
5.4.4.2	Expansion Continues Unabated	97
5.4.4.3	Renewal of the Core.....	99
5.4.4.4	Prospects for Regional Problem-Solving in the Bay Area.....	101
5.5	Some Observations on Southern California: an Exemplary Failure of Metropolitan Regionalism.....	103
5.5.1	Contradictions of Rapid Growth.....	105
5.5.2	The Fragmentation of Metropolitan Growth Management: Municipal Strategies to Regulate Development.....	107
5.5.3	Conflicts in Growth Management: the City of San Diego and the County.....	108
6.	METROPOLITAN DEVELOPMENT IN CANADA.....	113
6.1	Recent Urban Policy in Canada	113
6.1.1	Provincial Legislation and Planning Priorities.....	115

6.1.2	A Synopsis of New Provincial Planning Instruments	118
6.1.3	Urban Redevelopment and the Provinces.....	119
6.1.4	The Regional Response: Metropolitan Governance and Regional Districts.....	120
6.2	Metropolitan Development in Vancouver: Cooperative Action for Balanced Regional Growth	124
6.2.1	Suburbanisation and Regional Visions of Development	125
6.2.1.1	The LMRPB and the Regional Plan.....	128
6.2.1.2	The Greater Vancouver Regional District and the Livable Region.....	129
6.2.1.3	Town Centres and Directed Growth.....	131
6.2.1.4	The Issue of Regional Public Transit.....	134
6.2.1.5	Agricultural Land Reserves: the Province as Land Use Regulator	135
6.2.2	"Densification" and Renewal: Reurbanisation of the Central City.....	138
6.2.3	Consensus, Cooperation and the Success of Regional Governance	144
6.3	Metropolitan Toronto: A Case in Compromise	146
6.3.1	The First Years of Metro Toronto: Expanded Urban Services, Central City-Suburb Conflicts.....	147
6.3.1.1	The Public Housing Issue	149
6.3.2	Regional Visions of Development: Controlled Decentralisation.....	150
6.3.2.1	The Subcentres Policy	151

6.3.2.2	Land Use Regulation and the Toronto-Centred Region	154
6.3.3	Reurbanisation of the Centre	155
6.3.3.1	Housing Intensification Efforts.....	156
6.3.4	Toronto: a Qualified Success	157
7.	METROPOLITAN REGIONALISM IN WEST GERMANY: A STUDY	158
7.1	The Comprehensive Planning Law of 1960.....	159
7.2	National Urban Policy: the Federal Planning Act of 1965.....	160
7.3	Instruments of Planning Control: Central Places and Growth Axes	162
7.4	Local Autonomy and Metropolitan Governance	165
7.4.1	Local Government Reorganisation: National Reforms	166
7.4.2	The Advent of Regional Governance in West Germany.....	167
7.5	Urban Renewal and Reurbanisation as a National Urban Policy Goal.....	170
7.5.1	"Recentralisation" Trends and Urban Policy.....	171
7.6	Metropolitan Development in Greater Munich.....	173
7.6.1	The Establishment of Regional Planning	177
7.6.1.1	Development Concepts and the Regional Development Plan.....	179
7.6.1.2	Growth Quotas and Regional Development	180
7.6.2	Central City Domination and Metropolitan Planning.....	182
7.6.2.1	North - South Conflicts.....	183

7.6.2.2	Urban Renewal Strategies in Central Munich	185
7.6.3	"Organic Growth," an Alternative ?.....	188
7.6.3.1	Land Banking and "Organic" Community Development.....	189
7.6.4	Munich: Municipal Support of Regional Planning	190
7.7	Observations on the Frankfurt Region: an Example of Compromise	191
7.7.1	Suburbanisation in the Frankfurt Region.....	191
7.7.2	The Nature of Metropolitan Problems	192
7.7.3	Regional Governance Established: City - Suburb Compromise.....	194
7.7.3.1	Regional Conflicts in Metropolitan Development.....	195
8.	CONCLUSION.....	199
8.1	Problem-Solving Mechanisms: a Summary	200
8.2	Some Spatial Generalisations	202
8.3	Closing Thoughts on Urban Centrality.....	203
	BIBLIOGRAPHY	207
	PHOTOGRAPHS.....	227