

Contents

Introduction	1
1 Five Biographical Profiles	19
Lelewel	19
Daukantas	25
Palacký	29
Horváth	35
Kogălniceanu	40
2 Romantic Historiography in the Service of Nation-Building	46
The democratization of historical writing	46
Commitment and impartiality	53
Romantic progressivism	57
Self-congratulation versus emancipation	61
The blueprint of national historiography	64
Consolation and encouragement	69
Conclusion: desiderata and fulfilments	72
3 Institutionalization and Professionalization	75
The transformation of historiographical standards	75
Learned societies	78
Universities	84
Publication of primary sources	89
Journals	91
Auxiliary sciences	95
Censorship	96
Conclusion	100
4 Intellectual Background	103
Enlightenment in national contexts	103
Herder's legacy	109
The impact of the Scottish Enlightenment	113
The Spätaufklärung in Göttingen	118

Encounters with Nikolai Karamzin	124
Contemporary resonances: the French liberal school	128
Conclusion	132
5 Language as Medium, Language as Message	136
The fecundity of inferiority complexes	136
Language as a bridge: in the service of unity	141
Language as evergreen cowberry: representing continuity	144
The unique language: antiquity and other virtues	147
Enriching the national culture through translations	152
The Lithuanian Robinson	154
Promoting academic language in Hungary	157
The birth of modern political language in Romania	160
Towards creating 'original' scholarship	163
Conclusion	165
6 National Antiquities	167
The interest in origins and early societies	167
The vantage point: Tacitus	172
Nordic antiquity	174
Indo-European antiquity	178
Putative Czech antiquity	181
Roman antiquity	186
Semi-Nomadic antiquity	189
Conclusion	193
7 Feudalism and the National Past	196
The study of feudalism in historical scholarship	196
Conquest and colonization	200
The late arrival of feudalism and its illegitimate nature	203
Humanitarianism, common sense and urban liberties	205
Feudal institutions as national institutions	209
Creating modern society: the emancipation of the peasantry	211
Liberalism versus democracy	215
Ways of change: reform versus revolution	219
Conclusion	221

8 The Golden Age	224
The evolution of master narratives	224
Virtue in the forest: pagan Lithuania	226
Poland: a true republic	231
The Czechs: a small nation's contribution to liberty	236
The Hungarian constitution and the spirit of liberalism	242
Romania: united and independent	248
Conclusion	253
9 Perceptions of Others and Attitudes to European Civilization	256
Images of the self and others	256
External others: the neighbours	259
Internal others: the Jews	264
Internal others: the Jesuits	270
Internal others: women	273
Symbolic geography: East, West and their alternatives	275
The Cyrano de Bergerac effect	278
Negation and analogy: the nation's mission	282
Conclusion	286
Conclusion	289
Bibliography	305
Index	335