

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
Introduction: Reconstructing Life, Place and Identity	1
Problems with Centring on the State	3
Rethinking Refugeehood: Focusing on Processes, Intersections and Agency	6
Liminality and Refugee Agency	9
Lived-In Worlds of Refugees: From Contexts to Processes	10
Policy ‘Solutions’ and Types of Agency They Engender	12
A Note on Method: Focus on Refugee Voices	16
An Outline of the Book	20
1 The Question of ‘Home’: Place-making and Emplacement	25
Place, Home and Homeland	26
Territorially Bounded Places and Identities: Importance and Meanings	27
Orientation to Place and the Politics of Belonging	28
Links between Peoples, Places and Cultures: The Question of Community	31
Group and Cultural Identity as an Organising Principle for Incorporation	32
The Question of Community Organisations	33
Transnational Practices of Place-Making	34
Transnationalism and ‘Homelessness’	36
Ties with the New Home	37
Taking Control and Reconstructing Life	39

2 Experiences of Displacement: Force, Choice and the Creation of Solutions	44
The Mass Exodus of People from War-torn Yugoslavia:
The Quest for Ethnic Purity and Territorial Cleansing	45
How One Makes a Decision to Leave and Where to Go?	49
Flight and Creation of Solutions: Agency and the Role of Social Networks	57
3 Regaining Control Over Life: Dependency, Self-sufficiency and Agency	61
Following the Rules in the Netherlands	62
Struggling to Survive in Italy	75
Problems with Refugee Assistance	91
4 Negotiating Continuity and Change: The Process of Reconstructing Life	94
Bonding Networks and the Emplacement of Refugees in Rome and Amsterdam	96
Bridging Social Networks and the Emplacement of Refugees in Amsterdam and Rome	104
Social Networks and Emplacement: The Process of Becoming 'of Place'	114
5 Transnational Lives of Refugees, Questions of Citizenship, Belonging and Return	119
Transnational and 'Glocal' Ties: A Sense of Continuity and Belonging	119
Transnational Strategies of Survival and Betterment	122
Transnationalism and the Changing Notion of Return	124
Citizenship: A Status or a Practice?	133
New Meanings of Citizenship, Belonging and Emplacement	137
Emplacement: A Process of Pluralisation	139
Appendices	143
Bibliography	161
Index	173