

CONTENTS

| | |
|--|-----|
| About the Authors | vii |
| Preface | xi |
| Geoff Payne and Malcolm Williams | |
| 1 Introduction: The 'Crisis of Number': Informed Citizens, Competent Social Scientists | 1 |
| Geoff Payne and Malcolm Williams | |
| 2 Mapping the Academic Landscape of Quantitative Methods | 9 |
| Geoff Payne | |
| 3 Best Practices in Quantitative Methods Teaching: Comparing Social Science Curricula Across Countries | 32 |
| Jonathan Parker | |
| 4 The Place of Quantification in the Professional Training of Sociologists: Some Career Reflections | 49 |
| Martin Bulmer | |
| 5 Challenges and Opportunities for Developing Teaching in Quantitative Methods | 66 |
| Malcolm Williams and Carole Sutton | |
| 6 How to Teach the Reluctant and Terrified to Love Statistics: The Importance of Context in Teaching Quantitative Methods in the Social Sciences | 85 |
| Katharine Adeney and Sean Carey | |
| 7 Improving the Teaching of Quantitative Methods to Undergraduate Social Scientists: Understanding and Overcoming the Barriers | 99 |
| Jane Falkingham and Teresa McGowan | |
| 8 Increasing Secondary Analysis in Undergraduate Dissertations: A Pilot Project | 121 |
| Jo Wathan, Mark Brown and Lee Williamson | |
| 9 Mathematics for Economics: Enhancing Teaching and Learning | 142 |
| Rebecca Taylor and Angela Scott | |

| | | |
|----|--|-----|
| 10 | Jorum: A National Service for Learning and Teaching Jackie Carter | 157 |
| 11 | The Problem, Strategies and Resources in Teaching Quantitative Methods: The Way Forward Matthew David | 177 |
| | Index | 183 |