

Contents

List of Figures	x
List of Tables	xi
Author Biography	xii
Acknowledgements	xiii
Preface	xiv
1 Introduction and Overview	1
Theory as testable explanation	6
A critical approach to accounting research	8
2 Developing the Research Idea	14
The research sequence	14
Emergence of the research topic	17
Conceptual frameworks	21
The structure of DNA: the development of new theory	23
The Bradman problem: the development of new strategies	25
The longitude problem: implementing solutions	27
Strategic management accounting	30
3 Theory, Literature and Hypotheses	33
Sources of theory	33
Searching the literature	43
Modelling the relationship	45
Developing the hypotheses	49
Validity concerns	50
4 Data Collection	53
Choosing a research method	53
Sample selection	55
Measurement issues	56
Data management	58
Qualitative research	59
Verbal protocols	60
5 Data Analysis	62
Descriptive statistics	62

Differences in sample means	66
Measures of association	71
Analysis of variance	74
Multivariate model building	76
6 Research Ethics in Accounting	93
The ethics quiz	94
Informed consent	96
Ethical guidelines	98
7 Experimental Research	101
The problem statement	102
Theory and context	102
Experimental design	105
The validity trade-off	108
Quasi-experimental research	112
8 Survey Research	116
Mail surveys	116
Design and planning issues	119
Pilot testing	121
Data collection	123
Measurement error	125
Interview methods	127
9 Fieldwork	132
Case study methods	135
The qualitative analysis protocol	138
Grounded theory	141
10 Archival Research	143
Cross-section data	144
Time-series data	145
The validity trade-off in archival research	146
Content analysis	147
Critical analysis	150
11 Supervision and Examination Processes	153
The role of the supervisor	154
Examiner profiles	159
The examination process	160
12 Turning Research into Publications	164
Why publish?	164
Where to publish?	165

What to publish?	170
How to publish?	174
Concluding remarks	177
Appendix 1: Ranking of Accounting Journals	179
Appendix 2: Sample Paper	182
References	199
Index	219