

Table of Contents

Preface	7
1. Creation, the ‘Apocalyptic Outlook’ and 4 Ezra	9
1.1 Introduction	9
1.2 Creation, History and Apocalypse	10
1.3 The ‘Apocalyptic Outlook’ and 4 Ezra	18
1.4 Situating the Present Study	21
1.5 Format of the Study	24
2. Hearing the Voice of 4 Ezra	27
2.1 Language and Text	27
2.2 Overview of the Book	29
2.3 Unity, Coherence and Finding the Author’s Voice	30
3. Creation in the Beginning	35
3.1 Introduction	35
3.2 The Vocabulary of Creation	35
3.3 Adam and the Garden (3:4–6)	37
3.4 Creation and Judgement (6:1–6)	45
3.5 Genesis Rewritten (6:38–54)	58
3.6 Conclusions	68
4. Creation Now: A World in Peril	71
4.1 Introduction	71
4.2 The Created Order and a Universal Law	71
4.3 The Parabolic Use of the Natural Order	82
4.4 Natural Law Rejected?	85
4.5 A Threatened World	87
4.6 A Threatening World	92
4.7 Two Worlds Planned from the Beginning	96

4.8 This Aging Saeculum	99
4.9 Creation's Plight: Some Conclusions	101
5. The Saeculum to Come	105
5.1 Introduction	105
5.2 Episode 1	106
5.2.1 Intimations of an end	106
5.2.2 Reasons for an end	107
5.2.3 Signs of the end (I)	111
5.3 Episode 2	115
5.3.1 A pre-determined end	115
5.3.2 Dividing the ages	116
5.3.3 Signs of the end (II)	119
5.4 Episode 3	124
5.4.1 Ways of the world to come	124
5.4.2 The eschatological framework	125
5.4.3 The renewal of creation	135
5.4.4 The immortal age	136
5.4.5 Eschatological rewards	137
5.4.6 Signs of the end (III)	140
5.5 Episode 4	142
5.5.1 A heavenly and earthly city	142
5.5.2 Mother Zion and Mother Earth	144
5.5.3 Eating the flowers of the field	145
5.6 Episodes 5 and 6	148
5.6.1 The deliverance of creation	149
5.6.2 Another land	152
5.7 Episode 7	153
5.8 Conclusions: Ambiguity, Discontinuity and Hope	157
6. Summary and Conclusions	161
6.1 Summary of Results	161
6.2 Fourth Ezra's Theology of Creation, the Apocalyptic Tradition and Prospects for Future Research	164
Bibliography	173
Index	191