

Contents

Abbreviations	XXI
Chapter I	1
Preliminary thoughts: Controlling with the aid of the Berlin Balanced Scorecard as Performance Measurement approach in companies	1
1 Performance Management Basics	1
2 Traditional Performance Measurement Concepts as predecessor of the BSC	10
2.1 DuPont system.....	10
2.2 ZVEI-ratio system.....	12
2.3 Profit-Liquidity-ratio system.....	13
2.4 Critical appraisal of traditional Performance Measurement concepts	14
3 BSC – an ideal and practicable, modern Performance Measurement concept	15
Chapter II	19
About the issue of the use of the Balanced Scorecard as Controlling Instrument within a value oriented business management	19
1 Starting point and problems concerning the Balanced Scorecard	19
2 Basics of controlling with the help of Balanced Scorecard	21
2.1 Overview over Strategic Management and Controlling	21
2.1.1 Approaches regarding Strategic Management and Controlling.....	21
2.1.2 About the Strategic Management Process.....	23
2.2 Past management trends	26
2.2.1 Total Quality Management (TQM)	26
2.2.2 Business Process Reengineering (BPR)	27
2.2.3 Management by Objectives (MbO).....	27
2.3 Existing management problems	29
2.4 Balanced Scorecard as a solution for the performance measurement topics	31

3	Balanced Scorecard as Strategic Management Instrument	33
3.1	Conception of the Balanced Scorecard	33
3.2	The four generic perspectives in accordance with Kaplan/Norton.....	35
3.2.1	Financial Perspective	35
3.2.2	Customer orientation.....	36
3.2.3	Perspective of internal processes.....	37
3.2.4	Perspective of learning and development.....	38
3.3	About the strategy implementation with the Balanced Scorecard.....	38
3.3.1	Formulation and implementation of vision and strategy.....	38
3.3.2	Communication and coordination of strategic aims and measures	42
3.3.3	Planning, determination of objectives and coordination of strategic initiatives.....	48
3.3.4	Strategic Feedback and Learning	49
3.4	Implementation of the Balanced Scorecard.....	51
3.4.1	Course of action	51
3.4.2	Success factors	53
3.4.3	Experiences of implementation.....	55
3.4.4	Strengths and weaknesses of the concept.....	56
4	Indicators and indicator systems as first necessary step...	58
4.1	Terminological basics about indicators.....	58
4.2	Indicator types.....	58
4.2.1	Cardinal numbers	58
4.2.2	Ratios	59
4.3	Ratio systems as Performance Measurement	60
4.3.1	About the Du Pont-ratio system.....	60
4.3.2	The ZVEI-ratio system.....	62
4.3.3	The profit-liquidity ratio system	63
4.4	Evaluation methods.....	64
4.4.1	Static analysis.....	64
4.4.2	Comparative Analysis	64
4.5	Generic problems with the use of indicators	66
5	Balanced Scorecard as indicator system	68
5.1	Use of strategic indicators.....	70
5.2	Determination of a well-balanced indicator mix	70
5.2.1	Well balanced proportion of early and lagging indicators	70
5.2.2	Balance between financial and non-financial indicators	72
5.3	Indicators connected through cause-effect chains.....	73
5.3.1	Cause-effect relations of the BSC	73
5.3.2	About the generation of causal relations	75

5.4	Indicators of the particular Balanced Scorecard perspectives	77
5.4.1	Financial perspective	77
5.4.2	Customer Perspective	85
5.4.3	Internal process perspective	88
5.4.4	Learning and growth perspective	90
5.5	Application Problems	94
6	About the calculability of the Berlin Balanced Scorecard Approach...	95
6.1	Illustration of and connection between customer perspective and financial perspective.....	96
6.1.1	Contribution margin accounting as earning analysis in the customer perspective ...	96
6.1.2	Return of Investment as parameter of the financial perspective.....	98
6.1.3	From the customer to financial perspective via contribution margin analysis	99
6.2	Calculability of the internal process perspective and connection to the potential and financing perspective.....	102
6.2.1	Quantification of the internal process perspective via analysis of value creation ..	102
6.2.2	Productivity as parameter for economic efficiency	103
6.2.3	Connection of finances with internal business processes and internal potentials through value creation.....	104
6.3	Connection of the customer perspective with the potentials via an optimal production program in the case of given capacities.....	106
7	Closing words	109
8	Literature	111
Chapter III		121
	Quantification of the potential perspective, employee perspective or of human resources in the context of the Berlin Balanced Scorecard without cost-utility analysis	121
1	Cost and capitalized value-oriented quantification	122
1.1	Differentiation of relevant costs	123
1.1.1	Salaries and wages	123
1.1.2	Absenteeism	126
1.1.3	Fluctuation.....	128
1.1.4	Employee suggestion system.....	131
1.1.5	External labor costs	131
1.1.6	Costs of material.....	132
1.1.7	Interests and similar expenses	133
1.1.8	Administrative costs and costs of distribution.....	133

2	Calculation of a contribution margin per employee	133
2.1	Interpretation of the employee contribution margin.....	134
2.2	Extrapolation to the employee cash flow	135
2.3	Investments appraisal based aggregation	137
2.4	Determination of the discount rate	137
2.5	Possibilities of usage and interpretation of results	138
3	Indicator hierarchy of the Berlin Human Capital Assessment Model	139
4	Conclusion and outlook	141
5	Literature	141
Chapter IV		147
Berlin Human Capital Assessment Model exemplified with football player values with benefit analysis		147
1	Introduction	147
2	Side note: previous considerations on the controlling logic in the area of human capital	149
3	Soccer associations	154
3.1	Legal basis	154
3.2	Reasons for a transformation	155
3.3	Externalization of the contract player department.....	156
3.4	Legal steps of externalization.....	157
3.5	Possible legal forms and their advantages and disadvantages.....	158
3.6	Example of the structure of a soccer capital corporation	159
4	Revenues and expenses of soccer associations	161
4.1	Sources of income.....	161
4.1.1	TV revenues	162
4.1.2	Merchandising structure.....	166
4.1.3	Spectator revenues	167
4.1.4	Jersey advertisement	167
4.1.5	Merchandising.....	168
4.2	Expenses	168
4.2.1	Stadium rent	168

4.2.2	Player remunerations	169
4.2.3	Other operational expenses	169
5	Identification of player capacity on the balance sheet	170
5.1	Definition: Intangible assets	170
5.2	Side note: Principle of entry as asset in accordance with the HGB (German Commercial Code)	170
5.3	Examination of the possibility of entry of player abilities under IAS 38	172
5.3.1	Abstract possibility of entry as asset	172
5.3.2	Concrete possibility of entry as asset	173
5.4	Self-created immaterial assets	176
5.4.1	Booking conditions in accordance with the HGB	177
5.4.2	Booking conditions in accordance with IAS/IFRS	177
5.5	Evaluation of access to “intangible assets”	180
5.5.1	Hand money or “Signing Fee”	181
5.5.2	Player agent and commission	182
5.5.3	Purchase tax related dealing with the purchase payment and the agency commission	184
5.6	Subsequent valuation of the “Intangible Assets”	185
5.7	Systematic amortization	186
5.8	Extraordinary depreciation	187
5.9	Appreciation	188
5.10	Contract term	189
5.10.1	Contents of labor contracts	189
5.10.2	Formation compensation	190
5.10.3	Transfer Fee	191
5.11	Special presentation of player values in the balance sheet	192
5.12	Interim conclusion	193
6	Balanced Scorecard	194
6.1	Definition	194
6.2	Composition	195
6.3	The seven central ideas of the Balanced Scorecard	196
6.4	Standard Model	197
6.4.1	Vision	197
6.4.2	Mission	198
6.4.3	Strategies	198
6.4.4	The four target perspectives	201
6.4.5	Cause-effect relations	206

7	Case study: Balanced Scorecard illustrated with a soccer club	207
7.1	Frame conditions.....	207
7.1.1	Venues, administrative panel and specialties.....	207
7.1.2	Club team.....	208
7.1.3	Structure of revenues and expenses.....	209
7.2	Balanced Scorecard of the “FC Hagen 09 e.V.”.....	210
7.2.1	Company strategy.....	210
7.2.2	Financial perspective.....	210
7.2.3	Customer perspective.....	214
7.2.4	Internal process perspective and employee perspective.....	221
7.2.5	Sportive perspective.....	224
7.2.6	Cause-effect relations.....	228
7.3	Scenario.....	232
7.3.1	Sportive targets.....	232
7.3.2	Internal process and potential perspective.....	233
8	Case study: Application of the Berlin Balanced Scorecard	238
8.1	Application of the Berlin Balanced Scorecard.....	238
8.2	Assessment of the player performance.....	238
8.3	Assessment of the additional value.....	243
8.4	Determination of the player value.....	244
8.5	Connection of the player with the financial perspective.....	245
9	Conclusion	246
10	Literature and sources	247
Chapter V		261
Value increasing performance control with the help of the Berlin Balanced Scorecard Approach: Further Development of the financial perspective via the capital flow calculation and the Working Capital management		261
1	Introduction	261
2	Cash Flow Statement	262
2.1	Basic principles for establishing a Cash Flow statement.....	263
2.2	Special questions of attributions.....	265
2.3	Structure of the Cash Flow statement.....	266
2.3.1	Cash flows from operative activities.....	267
2.3.2	Cash flows from investing activities.....	268

2.3.3	Cash flow from financing activities	268
3	About Working Capital	269
3.1	Determination of the Working Capital	270
3.2	About management of Working Capital.....	270
3.3	Tasks of Working Capital Management.....	272
3.3.1	Management of receivables.....	272
3.3.2	Management of inventories	273
3.3.3	Management of liabilities	273
3.4	Control of Working Capital.....	274
3.5	Effects of the Working Capital management.....	275
3.6	Interactions between Working Capital and Cash Flows.....	276
3.7	Interactions between Working Capital and ROI.....	277
4	The connection of Shareholder Value, Cash Flow Statement and Working Capital with the Berlin Balanced Scorecard	280
4.1	Determination of the adequate target rate.....	280
4.2	Mathematical connection of SHV, Cash Flow Statement, WC and BSC.....	281
4.2.1	Management of the operative Cash Flows	282
4.2.2	Management of Cash Flows from investing activities	283
4.2.3	Management of Cash flows from financing activities.....	283
5	Conclusion	283
6	Literature	284
7	Closing words and outlook	285