

Contents

Illustrations	page viii
Preface	ix
Acknowledgements	xi
Abbreviations	xii
Chapter 1 Early life and contexts: 1772–1802	1
The least beloved	2
Unitarian	3
Pantisocrat and democrat	4
Journalist	7
Friend	8
Self-watcher	10
Metaphysician and Kantian	11
Opium user	13
Lover	15
Writer	16
Chapter 2 Poetry	18
The poetry of extreme states	20
The unfinished, the revised	21
‘The Rime of the Ancient Mariner’	22
‘Christabel’	26
‘Kubla Khan’	28
‘Conversation’ poems	31
‘Letter’ poems and ‘Dejection’	33
‘Asra’ poems	35
Theatre writing	36
Later poetry	36

Chapter 3 Notebooks	41
Keeping notebooks	43
A writer's life: nine kinds of notebook entry	44
The notebook as commonplace book	48
Dreams, fantasies, terrors	50
Travel writing and the natural world	51
Coleridge revealed	55
What do the notebooks omit?	57
Reading the notebooks	59
Chapter 4 Mid-life works and contexts: 1803–1814	62
The Friend	65
Coleridge and the operation of the senses	69
Incipient disaster	71
Chapter 5 Language	73
The right word	74
The language of thought	75
The origins of language	77
Grammar	79
Words as things	80
Poetry and prose	82
The natural language of poetry	83
Copying and coining	84
Language's debt to Coleridge	88
Chapter 6 Criticism	90
Shakespeare lectures	90
Other Shakespeare criticism	93
Criticism in notebooks and marginalia	94
Biographia Literaria	97
The attack on Wordsworth	99
Fancy and Imagination	103
The publication and problems of the Biographia	105
The nature of the Biographia	106

Another kind of autobiography	107
Intellectual property and the Biographia	108
Onwards from the Biographia	111
Chapter 7 Later works and contexts: 1815–1834	113
Religion	115
Lay Sermons	116
Faustus	118
Aids to Reflection	119
On the Constitution of the Church and State	121
Later life	122
Talking and thinking	123
Logic and Opus Maximum	127
Afterword	130
Notes	132
Further reading	139
Index	142