

Contents

Preface ix

Acknowledgments xvii

1 Overture: Sensibility in the Age of Slavery 1

2 Intersections: Taste, Slavery, and the Modern Self 50

3 Unspeakable Events: Slavery and White
Self-Fashioning 97

4 Close Encounters: Taste and the Taint of Slavery 145

5 “Popping Sorrow”: Loss and the Transformation of Servitude 188

6 The Ontology of Play: Mimicry and the Counterculture of Taste 233

Coda: Three Fragments 282

Notes 287

Bibliography 321

Index 353